The houses are being evacuated in the Gross-Ziethen area, in the southern part of the city.

AFTER ARMS TALKS

Kennedy Sees Summit Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has told Soviet Premier Khrushchev he hopes developments at the forthcoming Geneva disarmament conference may lead to a summit meeting by June 1.

At the same time the United States and its Western allies are reported to be considering short-range disarmament proposals which they hope Russia may accept quickly at Geneva, thus providing a basis for a summit meeting in May.

Among these is a proposal to ban the transfer of nuclear weapons to other countries.

Kennedy's views were expressed to Khrushchev during the weekend in a 1,000-word note rejecting Khrushchev's second proposal that the heads of the 18 nations involved—Canada included—attend the opening of the Geneva talks March 14.

Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain also rejected the Soviet premier's summit bid.

AGREES WITH KENNEDY

Kennedy expressed his hope that "developments in the conference and internationally would make it useful to arrange for personal participation of the heads of government before June 1."

In London, British officials said Macmillan's reply, like Kennedy's, repeated the view Continued on Page 7

Tumultuous Welcome

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. said today United States strides in space point to a brilliant future.

Brought here by President Kennedy to accept the country's homage, the first American to orbit the earth gave a joint meeting of the Senate and House of Representatives a picture of what can lie ahead.

"We are just probing the surface of the greatest advancements of man's knowledge of his surroundings that have ever been made," Glenn said.

The senators and representatives received him tumultuously, cheering as he had thousands of rain-soaked citizens who lined Pennsylvania Avenue to watch Glenn parade from the White House to the Capitol.

There were two standing ovations before Glenn even got into his prepared speech. Members of his family looked on from the galleries. He waved to his wife, Annie.

LAUDED BY SPEAKER
Speaker John W. McCormack, Dem.-Mass., introduced the 40-year-old marine lieutenant-colonel as a "brave and courageous American."

Glenn paid tribute to the thousands who had a part in the achievement. He thanked Congress for setting up the national program of space exploration.

He also made a point of calling attention to the different approaches used by the Russians and Americans working to uncover the mysteries of space. Noting that the American orbital shot was conducted openly before representatives of countries around the world and full news coverage, Glenn said:

"This is certainly in sharp contrast with similar programs conducted elsewhere in the world and elevates the peaceful intent of our program."

Crowds estimated at between 200,000 and 300,000 watched the procession in which Glenn moved from the White House to the Capitol.

Kennedy, Glenn and members of his family had landed at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland after a flight from West Palm Springs, Fla.

"They travelled by automobile to the White House before the parade moved out without Kennedy who was attending to other duties."

Riding in the White House limousine with the top down despite the downpour were Glenn, his wife, their two children and Vice-President Johnson.

Glenn, who smiled constantly and kept waving to the crowd, evoked cheers, screams and whistles.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

A letter received recently by Tourist Commissioner Bill Hawkins from a friend who is on an official mission in Viet Nam, gives Canadians top billing on the Saigon "Hit Parade."

He writes that Canadians seem to be immediately recognized and almost revered there.

"A Canadian can do no wrong. The Poles are hated, the French and Indians are tolerated and some Americans are well liked."

"How they distinguish between Canadian and American is a real mystery. I asked a beautiful, serene, young Cambodian princess and her answer was to this effect: 'We know. Canadians have deep hearts.'"

A trifle late, perhaps, but we liked the conversation overheard between two saleswomen at a local department store at the time astronaut John Glenn was making his second trip around the world.

"That astronaut," said one, "is travelling about 17,000 miles an hour. Gee, I wouldn't want to go that fast, would you?"

"No," said the other girl. "By the way, where's he going?"

Deputy Magistrate J. A. Byers, who frequently has to deal with car thieves, found himself personally involved the other day. He reported to city police his car was missing from his Foul Bay Road home.

A few hours later he reported the car had turned up—and at the wheel was 20-year-old daughter Valerie.

Mayor Dick Wilson, in trying to take the measure of his first 30 days in office, recently undertook a casting-up of accounts and was astonished at the result. This is what he found:

He had attended 35 meetings;
Made 20 speeches;
Attended 14 lunches and 12 dinners;
Participated in 18 ceremonies and receptions;
Received 167 visitors at the Mayor's office;
And written 178 letters.

What conclusion did he draw from this survey?
"Some way must be found," the mayor said, "to reduce the number of purely social commitments. I believe the people elected me to administer."

If you spot a Victoria car with a slightly different 1962 plate don't worry about it—it is quite legal.

Apparently a fun-loving convict at Oakalla prison was turning out plates in the four-figure bracket and omitted the dash from between the first and second figures of only one plate of the set.

The Motor Vehicle branch offered to replace the set free but the motorist decided to hang onto them.

Laos Neutralist Wants More Talks

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Despite Souvanna's expression of satisfaction, Gen. Nosavan was reported to have remained firm in his insistence that his pro-Western faction retain the defence and interior ministries in any coalition government.

He said he was satisfied with his inconclusive five-day talks here. The discussions with Premier Prince Boun Oum, Vice-Premier Phoumi Nosavan and many other politicians "have allowed me to see more clearly and will help to find an adequate solution," he said.

Souvanna said he was flying back to his capital at Xieng Khouang, in North Laos, to consult with leftist Prince Souphanouvong on the Vientiane dis-

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Postmaster-General William Hamilton said today that separatism in its extreme position is "supported by only a limited number."

Mr. Hamilton said that as long as Canada is a nation of two languages and two cultures "there will be those who will feel the balance is unfavorable to one group or another."

A former Montreal city councillor and still a resident of that city, Mr. Hamilton told a Rotary Club-Brotherhood Week luncheon:

5,000 Brave Storm To Hear War Warning

LONDON (Reuters)—More than 5,000 persons gathered in a wind-and-snow-swept Trafalgar Square here Sunday to hear two calls for disarmament from Nobel prizewinners Bertrand Russell of Britain and Linus Pauling of the United States.

Russell, 89-year-old philosopher and author whose anti-nuclear "committee of 100" called the rally, accused the British government of "preparing for global butchery."

Standing grim-faced and erect in the biting, below-freezing temperatures, Russell said that in the world today there are "military" people who could cause the death of 200,000,000 Russians and 160,000,000 Americans.

"These men have enormous power and if they succeed we are all doomed to death," Russell added.

MORE FACTS VITAL FOR MOON PROBE

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet scientist said today additional facts must be learned about the moon's surface before a manned space craft can be landed there successfully.

V. Dyomin wrote in the Ekonomicheskaya Gazeta (Economic Gazette) that Soviet astronomers have established via radio telescopes that a slag-like porous mass makes up the outer crust and that radio waves prove there is ice on the moon.

But the exact texture of the surface and whether the ice can be converted into drinking water remains to be determined, he said.

Dyomin suggested the lunar sea beds would be the best place for a space craft landing. But he cited one disadvantage: They are far from such interesting points as the mountains of the moon.

He said Soviet scientists are making a detailed study of the moon's crust to try to find the best method of effecting a soft landing.

He said Russia's Lunik II, which reached the moon in 1959, established the absence of any significant magnetic field around the moon. This means it does not have harmful radiation belts such as those ringing the earth, he said.

Strict Security In North Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (Reuters)—Strict security measures were clamped on northern Uganda today following an outbreak of weekend violence that shook this British protectorate, scheduled to receive internal self-rule in three days.

Strong police detachments were patrolling the northern counties of Bugaya and Buganzi, where crowds of Negroes were dispersed with gunfire and tear gas.

No overall casualty toll was available but five persons were known to have been injured in one incident. At least 38 persons were arrested.

Once police patrol opened fire after coming under attack from a mob of 800 Negroes hurling sticks and stones. The patrol had gone to the scene after the mob set fire to a market.

At another centre, 300 Negroes attacked a police patrol and an official who was erecting a curfew notice. Curfews have been enforced in both counties, which were declared "disturbed areas" last week by Governor Sir Walter Coutts.

In another incident, 200 Negroes, some armed with bows and arrows, attacked police and a local chief.

The violent outbreaks were linked with elections last week in Buganda and a territorial dispute over Bugaya and Buganzi.

The counties are part of an area claimed by neighboring Bunyord Kingdom, which demands the return of its "lost" territory annexed by Britain in 1894 and placed under Buganda rule.

Both Buganda and Bunyord have native kingdom status within the Uganda protectorate.

Pentagon Checks Oldfield Remarks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The defence department is inquiring into reported remarks by an air force officer about some details of photographs taken by U.S. U-2 planes of Soviet space ship launching sites.

A department spokesman said Friday that the Pentagon is checking "the statements attributed to Col. Barney Oldfield, who said that U-2 reconnaissance planes, like the one flown by Francis Gary Powers, took pictures that revealed Russia was having many failures along with successes in space launchings."

Trapped by Mud in Quarry 3 Skindivers Suffocated

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP)—Three members of a skindiving club swimming in the dark waters of an abandoned quarry were trapped by a mud slide Sunday and asphyxiated as their air supply ran out.

A fourth man tried desperately to save the others and was taken from the underground quarry to hospital. Dead were Jack Lepinski, about 27, a soldier attending courses at the International Business Machines plant here; David Lasher, about 32, and William Mills Sr., about 45, both of Kingston.

The three were in a group of eight members of the Ulster County Skindivers Club. While four of them stayed on the surface, Lepinski, Lasher, Mills and Gerry Klemm, 27, entered a narrow tunnel and went to the quarry shaft.

There, standing before a 200-foot deep pool by the light of flashlights, the men donned their rubber suits, fins and masks. Each man had just enough air for about an hour.

He found Lasher and Lepinski buried in the mud and dragged their bodies to the surface. Police and firemen tried in vain for two hours to revive them.

Mills' body had not been recovered Sunday night.

Klemm was taken to hospital where his condition was listed as fair.

The anchor man knew they are all right.

In 1960 the registration fees on vehicles in Canada amounted to $375,000,000, and $150,000,000 was collected in gasoline tax.

In the absence of a signal from the three, Klemm pulled on the rope. He got no response.

Rushing to the surface, he told the others and asked them to call police.

Then Klemm put on his own defective apparatus and dived into the pool to look for the others.

Klemm found his oxygen regulator "was not operating properly. He stayed on the underground shore to act as anchor man for the others, holding the ropes tied to each of the divers.

The divers normally tug on the ropes periodically to let

Heavy Snow Halts British Traffic

LONDON (Reuters)—A heavy snowfall covered most of Britain today, blocking some main roads with six-foot drifts and causing long delays in rail and airport traffic.

Snowplows were called out to villages isolated by blizzards in northern hills.

Thousands of cars were abandoned by motorists wary of the snow-covered ice. Officials appealed to drivers to leave their cars at home.

Freezing Rain 'Ices' S. Ontario

TORONTO (CP)—Freezing rain today spread a hazardous layer of ice over deep banks of snow in southern Ontario and was moving eastwards into Quebec. The rain became snow around the Georgian Bay area of Ontario.

The weather was cold on the Prairies with early-morning temperatures reaching as low as 47 degrees below zero at Vermilion, Alta.

In the Maritimes, it was sunny but some snow was predicted for tonight.

FLAMES LICKED HIS FEET

Flier Lands Burning Plane

HARRISON, Mich. (AP)—With flames searing his boots, a Detroit oil company executive guided his burning twin-engine plane to an emergency landing on an expressway near here Sunday.

Richard H. Sucher, 34, president of the Tulsa Oil Company, and three companions escaped from the plane seconds before it was engulfed by fire.

The four were flying back to Detroit from a skiing trip to northern Michigan when fire broke out in the plane at 1,800 feet. Flames and smoke began pouring from the instrument panel.

"I had no choice," said Sucher. "I had to get down in a hurry."

He said the smoke was so thick he could hardly see, but was able to get in line with traffic on the expressway and make the landing. Motorists slowed down to give the plane landing room. State police said.

Sucher's shoes caught fire as he stood on the brakes to stop the aircraft once it landed. The plane, a $70,000 Aero Commander, and the group's personal belongings were destroyed.

With Sucher were John Curran, 43, a construction contractor, the latter's son Lawrence, 21, and Robert Nichols, 23.

Mr. Towers' Warning

MR. GRAHAM TOWERS, LONG the governor of the Bank of Canada, is probably the nation's most respected authority on finance, a figure quite outside partisan politics and quite uninterested in the political fortunes of any government.

Speaking now as a private citizen, and with his usual moderation, Mr. Towers issues a sharp warning to the present Canadian government and to any possible successor. "I wish," he says, "there were more indications that authorities in Canada gave serious and continuous thought to the economic effects on the country of the tax burden imposed by all levels of government."

That burden now represents 26 per cent of the gross national product, roughly a quarter of every dollar produced by the work of all Canadians combined. The American people, as Mr. Towers says, bear about the same burden in mathematical terms but it is not the same burden in fact.

"Since the gross national product is about 40 per cent higher in the United States than Canada," Mr. Towers notes, "this must mean that their tax bite is relatively low—a possibility that most Americans dismiss—or that ours is too high for the country's good."

Mr. Towers is too good a financier and too experienced an observer of politics to imagine that the Canadian tax bite can be reduced when the government has accumulated four huge budgetary deficits, confronts a fifth and is raising expenditures in all directions. The best that he seems to hope for is that Canadian taxation can be frozen, for some time anyway, at its present level.

"If it is the case," he says, "that over-taxation is contributing to unemployment by raising costs and reducing incentives, it might be hoped that new commitments would be limited until the total 'take' represented a lower percentage of the gross national product."

Is there, in fact, any such hope? There can be none so long as the federal government builds up its budgets faster than it increases its revenues from existing tax rates, thus runs perpetual deficits and pays a large part of them by printing new money; so long as the provincial governments raise their taxes as they are doing now, and so long as the municipalities, low men on the financial totem pole, are compelled to raise their taxes on the Canadian home.

But Mr. Towers' warning is valid just the same. The tax load is not merely hard for the average Canadian to carry; it retards the growth of the gross national product from which all taxes must be paid. In the pretence of nourishing the economy it discourages the goose that lays all the golden eggs of prosperity.

We doubt, however, that Mr. Towers' sensible, non-partisan warning will have much effect on any political party, especially in an election year.

An Increasing Problem

THE VANCOUVER ISLAND Alcoholism Foundation again draws attention to the fact that alcoholism is a disease, not merely a habit, and that it demands the treatment that a disease must receive.

Two phases of the disease are seen: acute and chronic. The first is a short-term condition, but requires hospital care. The second is a matter of "out-patient" treatment, perhaps combining the efforts of physician, psychiatrist, home and treatment centre.

The history of Alcoholics Anonymous provides thousands of cases of victims of alcoholism who had to "hit bottom" before they could recognize the situation and start the long climb back. Sometimes bottom meant the full course: descent to skid row. Sometimes it was reached with the loss of a job, of a wife and family, of friends' respect. But at whatever stage the crisis is experienced, both the AA's and the Alcoholism Foundation are ready to aid the return journey.

In this connection, there are many experts on the problem who now advocate precipitating the crisis as soon as possible. The "soft treatment" by relatives and friends—hiding the victim's affliction from his boss and the community, supplying him with liquor, assuring him he needn't worry, helping him to fool himself that he hasn't a problem which may destroy him—is, from this viewpoint, doing the patient harm.

It is reasoned that the sooner he comes up against the bump—the critical, shocking moment that will make him see what has happened to him, the sooner the rehabilitation can begin. And it is no secret today that in a very large number of cases, for "him" may be written "her."

The Vancouver Island Alcoholism Foundation, working with the British Columbia organization, is concerned with the education and the rehabilitation problems of men and women afflicted with alcoholism. For an alcoholic, "know thyself" is probably the best advice possible, for it is only with that knowledge that a cure can begin. Few can succeed without outside help.

Back From 'Another Place'

REFORM OF THE HOUSE OF Lords has been a recurrent demand in Britain, particularly in this generation, as similar action has been urged for the Canadian Senate. Britain now appears on the verge of making at least one major alteration in the traditional "other place," chiefly as a result of the experience of Mr. Anthony Wedgwood Benn.

Mr. Benn became a peer last year on the death of his father, Lord Stansgate, and was thus forced to drop his career in the House of Commons and enter the political backwater of the House of Lords. The reluctant peer protested long and vigorously, but he was unable to remain in the Commons, and he was equally unable to renounce his peerage. He was the prisoner of centuries of tradition and custom—and he was not the first.

A joint committee which has been studying the problem in Britain may soon provide a solution. It is expected that the committee will recommend that peers be permitted to renounce their high position if they wish and revert to the status of Commonsers. They will thus be eligible for election to the Commons, and able to pursue their political careers.

The Commons will doubtless be enriched by some eminent men if such a change comes about. The Lords, at present bolstered by occasional political "comers" who are forced to move to the upper chamber, will perhaps be the loser by the arrangement. Certainly it would become difficult to have peers as cabinet ministers—as in the case of the present foreign secretary, Lord Home—since the public would demand their presence in the Commons once this had been made legally possible.

The present British development has no counterpart in Canada, of course, but the fact that so major a change in the House of Lords is seriously contemplated may well give encouragement to more active consideration of possible changes in the Senate.

No Oil for These Waters

IN VANCOUVER LAST WEEK the skipper of a Greek freighter was fined $500—the maximum—for discharging oil from the ship's bilges into the waters of the harbor. As a further disciplinary act, he was reportedly relieved of his position by the ship's owners.

There is nothing vindictive in commending the court's imposition of the maximum fine. It is little enough for the amount of damage the discharge of oil can cause. Only a short time previously, waste dumped by an unidentified craft in the waters off Vancouver caused the death of uncounted sea birds and fouled miles of beaches.

Enforcement of the law against such practices by visiting ships is of immediate importance to Victoria. On any number of previous occasions our coastline has suffered from the sticky, scummy mess caused when oil is dumped in the Strait—and the death of waterfowl has occurred.

With the vast reaches of the Pacific available to them, to discharge bilge oil where it will do the least harm, ship masters have little excuse for pumping out the waste near settled communities. Let's have a continuation of the vigilance which led to the conviction in Vancouver—and stiffer penalties if they prove to be a more effective deterrent.

ALL MY LIFE I'VE FELT THAT DEEP WITHIN ME I'VE BEEN SUPPRESSING A GREAT EVIL!

THAT'S WHY I WAS AFRAID WHEN MOTHER HAD MY PORTRAIT PAINTED.

BUT MY PORTRAIT MADE ME LOOK YOUNG AND GOOD AND INNOCENT. IT REMINDED ME OF THAT STORY—YOU REMEMBER—'THE PORTRAIT OF DORIAN GRAY'.

FINALLY I COULD STAND IT NO LONGER! I HAD TO KNOW MY REAL SOUL AND IT WAS ON THAT CANVAS! I RIPPED THE PAINTING FROM ITS HIDING PLACE AND REMOVED THE COVER!

ONE YEAR LATER

WHERE THIS YOUNG MAN WITH GREAT BYE IN HIM NEVER AGED A DAY—BUT HIS PORTRAIT GREW OLD AND UGLY AND EVIL.

IT WAS BLANK. I BURNED THE CANVAS BUT IT MADE NO DIFFERENCE. I DID NOT AGE A DAY.

SO I HAD MY PORTRAIT DETERMINED NEVER TO LOOK AT IT AGAIN. AND AS THE YEARS WENT BY I WENT TO WORK, I CAME HOME, I WENT TO WORK, I CAME HOME, BUT I DID NOT AGE A DAY.

I JUST GO TO WORK AND I COME HOME.

WE'RE MAKING WAR HOPELESS

He Who Fights and Runs Away... May Go Underground

By B. A. TOBIN

THE undeclared wars are the hardest ones to fight, yet it seems that our era will continue to be marked by this type of conflict. Laos, the Congo, Viet Nam, Algeria—Malaya, a while back, Korea before that—they just start out with a few shots and go on from there. After two world wars within a generation—the formal, "We hereby..." type of war—it may seem to mankind that the current informal fights are less important. Yet the Algeria battling has gone on for seven and a half years and its settlement, which appears imminent, may precipitate an even worse struggle.

The informal war specializes in terrorism. No pitched battles, no thin red lines, no "they shall not pass," no Maginot fortifications and that sort of thing. Just a sniper's bullet from the fringe of the jungle, a plastic bomb in an alley, a fusillade of shots from a car on a main street, a government official bleeding to death at his desk—even a child blinded for life in her living room—these are the forms of attack in informal warfare.

Obviously they are more savage, more bestial than formal war. Perhaps such tactics go back to the birth of our race, but more immediately perhaps they could be traced to the Spanish civil war and on up through the undergrounds of Europe, the resistance fighters of all countries, the murder of the Jews, and the many national uprisings that have marked the post-war years.

How far can informal, undeclared war go? What can it accomplish? In Algeria, apparently, the Secret Army Organization has not only terrorized the population but in some places has virtually driven officialdom into hiding. It controls the streets but little else, but this is sufficient to give it power.

The Moslem rebels, who have been quiet recently as Paris negotiates a peace with them, had controlled most of the countryside. But the tactics of both were those learned in the espionage and counter-espionage classes, the sabotage schools and underground training units of the last war. They seem to be a form of fallout that can be no less lethal than the nuclear dust.

A government cannot long endure such an undeclared war. It must put down the uprising or go under itself. For the fighting can never be confined to the actual participants. The civilian population must take sides, one way or the other—and the terrorists may often seem more immediate and threatening than the police.

Appalling Total
The fighting in the various countries today may come and go in the news columns. Viet Nam may not make the headlines for a week or two, yet the fighting and patrols are going on all the time; the Congo flares and dies; the Tibet border is heard from now and then. Yet the sum total of all this fighting is appalling in a world technically at peace. Lumped together, these non-wars would approximate a full-scale conflict on any given day.

They can no longer be considered as minor exceptions or departures from the state of peace. This type of world—marked and scarred by savage conflicts in half a dozen places—must be recognized as the twentieth century version of peace.

And the manner of this type of war-making must be seen as the manner of the future. Pearl Harbor was a foretaste of non-declared war. It shocked and astounded the world, that "day of infamy."

Yet that is precisely the way in which everyone expects the "next war" to start. It wouldn't be an exception or an irregularity if it happened again. It would be the normal, recognized way of starting a war in the nuclear age.

We used to think the old-fashioned wars of a hundred years ago and more pretty ridiculous. How could anyone be so foolish as to line his soldiers up in the open and invite the opposing commander to accept the honor of firing the first volley? How could anyone be so foolish as to move through wooded terrain in bright red coats? What could be so foolish as the formalized, conventionalized war etiquette of the day, when protocol meant more than lives?

Who could be so foolish? What could be so foolish? Is modern warfare, then, so sensible a thing? It has become so foolish, we must admit, that already there are serious proposals for abolishing war altogether. To such a pass has our informality led us.

Key to Disarmament: Inspection of Delivery Systems

By MAX FREEDMAN

THE State Department has made verification of arms the key to its disarmament policy and the test of Russian sincerity in seeking a summit conference. Russia has already agreed to a system of inspection and control of all arms which must be destroyed under an international agreement. But it has refused to go beyond this concession. A deadlock has thus been created in the disarmament negotiations, since no one in the Free World would know, under this arrangement, what military strength still belonged to the Soviet Union. President Kennedy would never sign a disarmament treaty that contained this dangerous gap; and if he did, the Senate would never ratify the treaty by the necessary two-thirds majority.

To break this deadlock, the State Department is studying a plan first proposed by Professor Louis Sohn of the Harvard Law School and later endorsed by Professor Hans Bettle, the famous nuclear expert from Cornell University who has served as a scientific advisor to both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

Under this plan, the military areas of the Soviet Union would be divided into twenty districts. The purpose of the inspection system would be to supervise Russia's delivery systems rather than its nuclear weapons.

Delivery systems are large and hard to conceal. Nuclear weapons are often small and easy to conceal. The key to effective disarmament is provided by control of the delivery system for missiles and rockets. This shift in emphasis, of decisive significance to the whole disarmament debate, has occurred in recent reviews of American policy.

Throughout the disarmament discussions, Russia has always regarded control and inspection as excuses for a guaranteed espionage system. This fear may appear morbid and unreasonable but it is stubbornly held and there will be no important gains for disarmament until its influence over Russian policy is relaxed.

It is the supreme merit of the Sohn-Bettle plan that it reduces this Russian fear, and thus makes possible gradual disarmament that will grow in scope as mutual confidence increases.

Check on Cheating
The United States already has some knowledge of Russia's delivery systems through the information provided by the Central Intelligence Agency and other sources. When Russia submits its list of twenty districts, the United States will send its inspectors into that district about which it already has the most information. That in itself will serve as a check upon cheating in two different ways.

Russia will not know which area will be open to inspection until the actual American choice is made. Secondly, the disarmament agreement will come to an end the moment the American inspectors have reason to believe the Soviet Union has moved delivery systems out of this area or is otherwise concealing its nuclear strength.

The Sohn-Bettle plan requires the Soviet Union to submit on a reciprocal basis, to inspection of only five per cent of its territory at any one time. Thus ninety five per cent of its fear of espionage should be removed. The problem, of inspection, in these terms, becomes manageable for the first time since the disarmament debate began many years ago.

The territory of the United States would also be divided into twenty districts, with Russian inspectors enjoying the same rights on American soil as are granted to American inspectors in the Soviet Union.

Mr. William Foster, the head of the disarmament agency, has presented a detailed report on the Sohn-Bettle plan to President Kennedy and Mr. Rusk.

While not agreeing wholly with the plan, the United States believes it has many advantages for peace and is worth exploring. The question now is whether Russia feels the same way.

Hardening of Arteries

Today, many persons, after reading much about hardening of the arteries, are wondering if perhaps they have it. They wonder what symptoms it is likely to produce, and what laboratory or x-ray studies will show that they have it.

I cannot say in a few words what the symptoms are likely to be because they depend so much on where most of the disease is. If it is marked in the arteries of the heart, the man may have anginal pain in his chest which comes with exertion, or when he loses his temper.

If the disease is mainly in his brain, he may early go into his second childhood, or he can have many little strokes, such as I have been describing for 30 years, or he may have one big stroke. If most of his disease has narrowed the main artery of one of his legs, he may have trouble with a severe pain that comes in the leg when he walks. It compels him to lean up against a building for a minute; and then he can walk on again. Such a man is now being cured by a good artery surgeon who takes out the narrowed segment of artery and puts in a new bit of tubing.

In some cases there are aneurysms, or blow-outs, in some of the arteries in the chest, the abdomen, or the base of the brain. Many of these now can be removed. Another place where arteriosclerosis causes trouble is in the arteries that supply the kidneys. Sometimes disease in one of these kidney arteries is the cause of a high blood pressure.

X-ray pictures of the abdomen or chest or legs of a person past 40 often will show the outline of a diseased artery that is full of lime salts. Fortunately, in many of these cases there are no symptoms. I remember my surprise 50 years ago, on seeing in the x-ray films of the chest of a woman of 28, signs of a tremendous ulceration of the big artery (aorta) which comes out of the top of the heart.

I was surprised to see so much arterial disease in so young a woman, and I was surprised when she told me she had no discomfort in her chest. Apparently, it was her heredity that was against her, because both of her parents early dropped with heart attacks.

Narrow places in arteries now are demonstrated by injecting these arteries with an opaque drug and then x-raying them. The physician often will diagnose hardening of the arteries by feeling the blood vessels at the wrist and over the temples and around the ankles. One of the best ways of telling whether or not a person has decided tendency to hardening, particularly of the tiny arteries in the brain, is to get an expert eye man to look into the backgrounds of the eyes—to see what the tiny arteries are like there. If the expert says they are normal, this is very cheering; but if he says they show marked changes, that can be a cause for worry, especially when the patient has a high blood pressure.

Recently, it has been shown that hardening of the arteries is not necessarily an accompaniment of old age. In Korea autopsies on young soldiers killed commonly showed a surprising amount of artery disease, while an autopsy on my father, who died when he was 84, showed the soft arteries of a child.

The main laboratory tests which suggest danger to the arteries are those which show an extra amount of fat, fat-like chemicals, or cholesterol (another fat-like body) in the blood. People should not get too frantic over a moderate increase in the blood cholesterol, because many persons live long enough with such an excess. Drugs now are being found to lower the level of blood cholesterol but we do not know yet how safe they are, or how much good a small drop in cholesterol will do.

Hundreds of people now write to say "Dad has a bad case of arteriosclerosis of the brain; where can we take him to have him cured?" I am sorry to have to say that I do not know any way of curing a man whose brain has been badly damaged by hardening of the arteries.

Today, experts are advising all people with hardening or ulceration of their arteries to hold their weight down. If the person is fat, he (or she) had better reduce weight by living on a low-calorie diet, consisting of some meat, chicken, fish, egg, or skimmed milk, plus a small amount of fat of vegetable origin, plus plenty of vegetables, salads and fruits. Much evidence now suggests that it is the fat of animal origin that does the most harm—the fat on meat, and in butter, cream, suet, and lard.

The only trouble with this dieting is that it seems to be of value mainly in keeping people from getting arterial disease. We are not so sure that the diet will clear away arterial disease that a fat man already has acquired. But it looks as if the fat man would be wise to try this diet.

CLC Officer Warns Labor Of Dangers

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—The Canadian trade union movement, suffering from declining membership, is in danger, says Donald MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Labor Congress.

"We are in danger of losing everything we have gained over the past 80 years," he told 300 persons Saturday at the windup banquet of a Congress Education Institute.

He said union membership declined last year for the first time since 1937. The loss was 12,000 members.

"If we allow ourselves to become a diminishing segment in society we will have less and less influence," he said. As unions become weaker the opposition will grow stronger.

Mr. MacDonald urged all union members to stop living in a fool's paradise and realize the dangers that are facing them. He listed increasing unemployment and restrictive labor legislation in Alberta, Newfoundland and British Columbia as dangers to unions. He said he had created a hostile climate for unions.

'Rational' New Guinea View Urged

THE HAGUE (AP)—U.S. Attorney-General Robert Kennedy called today for both Indonesia and The Netherlands to take a "factual and rational" approach to the explosive issue of West New Guinea.

Kennedy, nearing the end of a world tour during which he has visited both the countries contending for the Southeast Asia island territory, clearly implied he found both the Dutch and Indonesians approached the issue emotionally rather than factually.

"If a factual approach could be made and a genuine effort made by rational people" from both sides, he said, it may be possible to get both governments together at the conference table to work out a peaceful solution.

Kennedy refused to say whether he had made any suggestions to Foreign Minister Joseph M. A. H. Luns during a 70-minute conference they held today. Luns said they had a "good and friendly exchange" but that it was not conclusive since the U.S. president's brother is only on a fact-finding tour.

Aides to Kennedy said he brought no message from the Indonesian government to the Dutch.

Kennedy arrived Sunday from Bonn for a busy round of calls palace on the outskirts of The Hague. Kennedy dined with Premier Jan De Quay and top government officials. Sunday night, his wife had tea with Queen Juliana at Huis Ten Bosch, her topic of after dinner discussion.

HOME GARDEN

Some Things Learned Hard Way

Many little things about gardening we have to find out by experience, not always because we are the first to have discovered the facts but because few garden writers have thought it important enough to bring to their readers' attention.

When seed of commonly grown plants is germinated indoors with heat of any kind, the seedlings usually show through the soil within a period of three to seven days.

After seven days pass and nothing is to be seen we are likely to wonder what has gone wrong. We leave them for 10 days under their glass and paper covers, and if no results are seen, we try something different.

This season, we had trouble with lupin seed. Three seedlings came through the soil a box of "Shades of Pink" Russell lupins. When no more appeared by 10 days, we removed the box from heat and put it on a shelf near the roof glass in the greenhouse. To give it a completely new environment we took off the sheet of glass and the newspaper which had been used to give darkness.

As the three seedlings soon succumbed from weak stems, I sifted some fine sand over the surface of the soil, soaked the box in the sink for an hour and put it back on the shelf in full sunlight.

FIRST LEAVES

Within a week, a fine stand of seedlings appeared, which now are making their first true leaves. Soon they will be ready for pricking out into flats.

The seedlings of geum and nicotiana refused to appear while in darkness and heat, but have since made headway on the shelves in the greenhouse in full sun without any covering of paper.

It is known that some seeds require greater light intensity than others for good germination—a fact referred to in many of the more technical gardening books and in courses on plant propagation, but it is difficult to obtain a comprehensive and factual list covering the more common plants used in the home garden.

One authority questions the light theory and says it is more likely to be the amount of moisture that causes better germination with most seeds in covered seed boxes, while those requiring less moisture will germinate uncovered.

Whether we find the true reason or not, we often make one way when the other fails.

Shrum Rules Out Hat Creek

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Electric chairman Dr. Gordon Shrum said Sunday it's too late to investigate use of Hat Creek coal deposits as an electric power source.

"We've already launched the Peace River project," Mr. Shrum said. "There isn't much use launching a study of alternate power sources at this stage."

He was commenting on provincial Liberal leader Ray Perrault's claim that power from the Hat Creek deposits, 125 miles northeast of here, can be delivered in Vancouver more cheaply than power from the Peace River.

Mr. Perrault said in an interview Saturday that development of the B.C.E.-owned coal field could bring electricity to Vancouver for about 3.5 mills per kilowatt hour. The B.C. Energy Board estimates the cost of Peace power at 4.37 mills.

Mr. Shrum said the B.C.E. made a study of the Hat Creek deposits last year, and found its potential to be less promising than that of the Peace.

"You have to take the long-range future into consideration," he said. "And on that basis, it's difficult for thermal plants to compete with hydro-electric plants."

He said hydro-electric plants are "immune to inflation." But a power system dependent on coal-fired generators would be subject to rising costs of labor and coal.

"We're not concerned merely with the cost of power delivered in Vancouver. We're concerned with the economy of the whole province."

War Graves Pilgrimage To Holland

A pilgrimage to war graves in Holland will be made this fall by Canadians who have sons, husbands or fathers buried there.

Sponsored in part by the Canadian Legion, plans for the trip was described to Victoria members at a recent Esquimalt branch meeting.

DUTCH TO HELP

The Dutch government, which asked the Legion to sponsor the trip, will pay $50 toward the cost of each round trip charter flight fare, and will house, feed and guide the pilgrims during their 10-day stay.

Total cost to each person is estimated at $150 from Montreal but westerners will have to bear the added expense of travelling east.

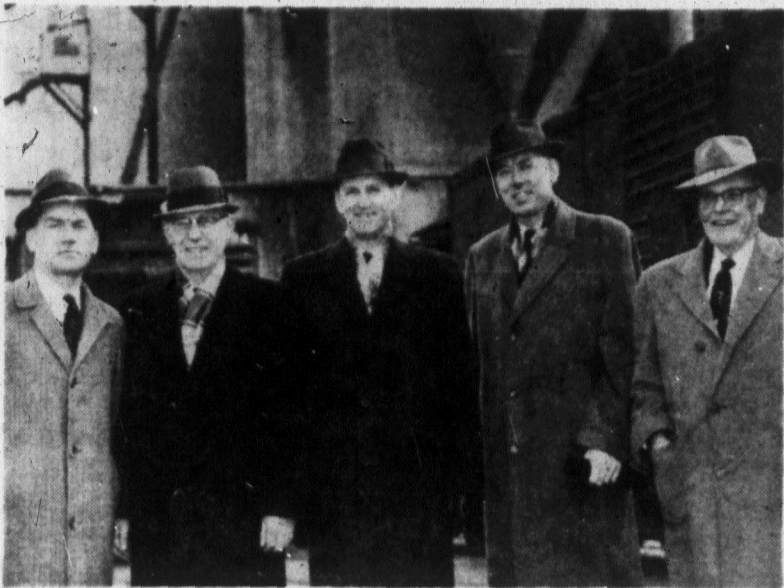

Local officials say it was proposed that the Canadian government be asked to assist. At the meeting, Cmdr. E. J. Gilhen, 1421 Wende, was elected president by acclamation.

Four Burned to Death In Ottawa District

OTTAWA (CP)—Fires in the Ottawa area left four dead over the weekend and razed the Ottawa Hunt and Golf Club, one of the capital's richest society gathering places.

Most serious of the blazes occurred Saturday at Gatineau, Que., 10 miles east of here. Three children ranging in age from one to eight died when fire levelled their three-family wooden dwelling.

Another fire Saturday at Vernon, Ont., 18 miles south of here, killed Thomas Baillie, 37,

DIRECTORS of the Alberta Wheat Pool came here Saturday to inspect their Victoria property, the Ogden Point grain elevator. From left are: A. J. MacPherson, Nelson Malan, A. J. Baker, manager of the Alberta

Wheat Pool; O. J. Broughton and C. C. Head, manager of the elevator. Afterwards they were entertained to luncheon by the Growers Wine Co. of Victoria.

... SUMMIT

that the conference should open at the level of foreign ministers.

Mr. Macmillan told Khrushchev a summit conference on disarmament might be useful even if negotiations to disarm are deadlocked.

Macmillan said he favored holding off on such a meeting until the 18 nations participating in the conference have put forth their positions on disarmament.

Kennedy rejected Khrushchev's contention that possible resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing would be an aggressive act. He said it was difficult to see that Russia, which broke the truce on atmospheric testing last fall, should now accuse the United States of aggression.

U.S. tests, if resumed, "would be a matter of prudent policy in the absence of the effectively-controlled nuclear test agreement that we have so earnestly sought," Kennedy said.

The Geneva conference is being held at the request of the United Nations. The 18 countries include five Western allies, five from the Communist bloc, and eight non-aligned countries.

Representatives of the five Western nations — the United States, Britain, Canada, France and Italy — have been meeting in Washington for two weeks to make plans for the Geneva talks.

OFFER PROPOSALS

Both Kennedy and Macmillan have proposed to Khrushchev that the Geneva talks tackle three main projects: A general program for total disarmament over a long-range period; a start on measures that could be negotiated by the near future to halt the nuclear arms race; and of immediate priority, a few steps that could be taken now.

In line with the proposal for steps that could be taken now toward disarmament, the western allies have been discussing several things that may be offered at Geneva:

1. An agreement under which the nuclear powers — the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France — would agree not to transfer nuclear weapons or the capacity to manufacture them to any other country.

2. An agreement on military uses of outer space.

3. Possible designation of a limited area for international inspection of military forces which might serve as a pilot project for future world-wide inspection.

4. Negotiation of a non-aggression pact between NATO and the Russian-controlled Warsaw pact countries.

U.S. officials say that so far there is no real basis for optimism about the disarmament conference.

Okanagan Nomination To Philpot

PENTICTON (CP)—Former Liberal transport minister Lionel Chevrier said Saturday the present federal government put the cart before the horse in dealing with Washington before British Columbia agreed to terms for the Columbia River development.

Speaking here at a Liberal nominating convention, Mr. Chevrier said the approach was wrongly made because Prime Minister Diefenbaker wanted "to be able to boast negotiations of the world's greatest power development."

Elmore Philpot, former member of parliament for Vancouver South, was nominated to contest the Okanagan boundary seat.

On a week-long tour of British Columbia, Mr. Chevrier said the treaty would have to be re-negotiated to protect Canadian interests.

Mr. Chevrier, in criticizing the Diefenbaker government, said the prime minister's statement recently that only 12 of his election promises had not been fulfilled was like "boasting that only 12 of a man's cheques had bounced."

OVER-OPTIMISM DAMPENED

U.K. More Cautious on ECM

By DAVID OANCA

LONDON (CP)—A feeling of uneasiness appears to be creeping into the discussions of Britain's bid to become a member of the European Economic Community.

The soul-searching is being reflected in newspaper columns, pub conversations, workshops and conference rooms.

It reached a point recently where some cabinet ministers were pointedly leading to political correspondents reports that the time table for Britain's entry may be delayed.

These inspired stories are taken as a government attempt to damp down what it feels may be incautious optimism over the chances of British membership in the community launched by Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

FACE INTERNAL STRIFE

They are viewed also as an indication of the recognition by Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative government of the formidable political struggle it faces in its own ranks over the common market issue.

They could also be a reflection of government feeling that the skillful public relations program to sell the common market idea in Britain may not be as successful as was hoped at the outset.

The sell-the-six program has been concentrated almost entirely on the economic advantages Britain would gain by joining the moves toward broader European union.

Little has been said about the political implications either for the Mother Country or for the Commonwealth at large. Most informed observers accept that Britain will almost certainly have to sacrifice some of her sovereignty if she becomes a community member.

This raises the question of her future relationship with the colonies she fostered into empire and eventually into the family of nations. And this is one of the questions that most worries the staunch Tories who have felt more at home in the little England around the world than they have in Bonn, Paris or Rome.

IDEA UNDERPLAYED

Cabinet ministers selling the idea of union in Europe have deliberately underplayed the idea that the goal of economic union is ultimately the political union of the Western half of the old continent.

With community membership the British Parliament, which has been supreme in the land, will give up some of its sovereign powers of national choice to the majority rule of the common market's member states.

It is on this aspect that the empire-minded Tories are building up their campaign against Britain throwing in her lot with that of her continental neighbors.

If the negotiations drag on, these forces may be able to muster enough power to jeopardize seriously the moves to draw closer to the continent.

The hope still appears to be that the broad outlines of any membership settlement will be known by July at the latest. Since the government has rejected the idea of a national referendum on joining, the common market debate could then take place in Parliament before the summer recess.

This also would permit the convening of a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference to discuss the family's future following the development of closer Western European Union.

NEED ACTION BY FALL

But if no clear pattern of settlement emerges before the British political party conferences in the fall, Prime Minister Macmillan's government may be in for some serious internal strife.

The conference traditionally has provided a forum for speakers who have been far more right-wing and empire-conscious than the party's parliamentary leadership.

Macmillan is determined to take Britain into Europe both economically and, as far as possible, politically. "Britain in Europe" could develop into a major theme during the next British election.

But observers stress that neither the prime minister nor his colleagues have any illusions about the political difficulties these moves present for the government leaders at home.

Students Ignited By Fiery Brandy

By JOHN MANNING

TAIPEI, Taiwan — Exams were over and the floor glistened with spilled wine. Around the restaurant table, under the harsh, bitter light of a single bulb, students sat watching paper-thin slices of beef sizzle on an open brazier. In the fumes overhead, an orange moth flew in tight circles around the light.

At intervals a Korean in a Mandarin robe jumped to his feet and challenged the company to drain their glasses, with a hoarse shout of: "Kan-bei!"

It was Kaoliang, a paralyzing brandy from the Island of Quemoy, which was quickly welding bonds of international brotherhood among the 32 students present. As the eighth or ninth bottle was opened, a wild Chinese gentleman from Northern Honan attempted to embrace the birdlike waitress, who fluttered out of range, eyes wide with terror. Much laughter.

COUNTLESS TOASTS

The evening progressed and more Kaoliang was opened. Fresh slices of beef were thrown on the brazier. A small knot of onlookers grinned in through the coffin-shaped doorway. The restaurant owner, a pompous fellow by the name of Wang, kept nervously adjusting his apron as though the guests' capacity to drink had something to do with the way it was tied. Countless toasts were proposed: to the end of exams; for a return to the mainland; to the beauty of Chinese women. Someone began playing a guitar.

About 10 o'clock in the evening, Mr. Hsieh dropped his glasses, crawled under the table after them and did not come up again. The birdlike waitress was instructed in the proper manner of lighting a four-foot string of firecrackers. Their explosions filled the room with the smell of gunpowder, adding a final touch of madness to the scene.

RED WITH BRANDY

With his back to the wall, sat a Korean whose face had gone bright red with brandy. Throughout the whole evening he had been completely oblivious to the food or singing; he just sat there raising his glass and staring down at the cement floor. They called him "Pang Tzu" (Fats). He was a student in National Taiwan University and had been a machine-gunner in the Korean War.

It was he who started the fight.

He dropped a full bottle of Kaoliang, incensing Mr. Kim, the host, who leaned Pang Tzu up against a metal pillar and began punching him in the stomach. For a moment the fat one did nothing.

DROPPED HIM

He stood there, arms limp, an expression of mild dissatisfaction on his face, until he realized he was being laughed at, swung his brick-shaped fist and dropped Kim where he stood.

His next move was to overturn the dinner table, revealing, as he did so, the incumbent form of Mr. Hsieh. Then he was out the door, swinging and veiling among the spectators. We went after him, leaving Mr. Wang, the proprietor, standing in speechless rage among the hissing wreckage.

Too late. Three military policemen trapped him in a small alley off Cheng Du Road. Shirtless, arms handcuffed behind his back, Pang Tzu was led away, still struggling, while a crowd of 200 Chinese quietly stared.

Needless Delays Retard Payment Of Compensation

Needless delays are occurring in payment of compensation to injured workmen because they, their employers, and doctors are failing to complete properly the necessary forms, according to Workmen's Compensation Board chief claims officer L. M. McLennan.

Mr. McLennan said the board must have all the information, particularly in time-loss cases, before the claims can be processed. "More than 300 new claims are received daily by the board, most of which are processed with dispatch," he said. "Delays occur when workmen, employers, or doctors don't take the time to give us all the facts."

Ottawa Set to Replace 'Lost' Oak Bay Beach

J. Ian Simpson, headmaster of Glenlyon Preparatory School said over the weekend

Animal Cruelty 'Terrible'

A Langford woman who has cared for many homeless strays abandoned outside her home struck out at the "inhuman cruelty" that could lead a person to leave a pet in this way.

Mrs. Hazel Wisdom, Langford, said "the cruelty of people to animals is terrible" in view of the existing "facilities for their temporary or permanent care."

These include the SPCA, Cats' Protection League, veterinarians, commercial kennels and the Good Shepherd Shelter.

Her comments followed an incident Feb. 16 when she and Roy Twyman, 1039 Costin, found five puppies abandoned in a Malahat Drive garbage dump.

The five-week-old waifs were taken to the Good Shepherd Shelter where Mother Cecelia Mary is caring for them until they are old enough for adoption.

"In the last year," said Mrs. Wisdom, "I have had four cats abandoned in boxes on the doorstep and, in the last two years, three dogs."

"There is no excuse whatsoever for the abandoning of animals and I take a dim view of anyone who does it."

"If people who are not breeding pure stock get a dog, they should have it altered," she pleaded. "It will cut down on the number of strays."

FANATIC MURDERER CAPTURED

SAMBALPUR, India (Reuters) — A fanatic who told police he had vowed to kill 100 persons to appease Siva, Hindu god of destruction, has been arrested near this eastern Indian town accused of killing nine persons in one week.

A group of 60 police caught the alleged murderer, Barja Chamar, 30, in a forest hideout. The murders scared voters here in India's current elections and only a 15-per-cent poll was reported.

Atom-Armed China May Worry Russ

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — When China begins making her own atomic arms, perhaps in a few years, neighboring nations, including the Soviet Union may have more initial cause for concern than the United States.

Some military men believe it likely the first nuclear weapons in the Chinese arsenal might be for tactical use to boost firepower of her huge ground forces rather than for strategic strikes against distant targets.

This is based, in part, on the assumption that Communist China initially at least would lack the delivery systems of ICBM rockets and long-range bombers needed for strategic attack on targets thousands of miles away.

But shorter range, tactical missiles and fighter-bomber aircraft would be easier to come by.

The growing coolness between Moscow and Peking resulted in the withdrawal about a year ago of many if not most of the Soviet technicians who had been helping China develop industry and war-making capabilities.

At a recent press conference President Kennedy was asked what the prospects might be for bringing Communist China into a nuclear control agreement.

Kennedy replied this obviously would be difficult, then added "there is really no use in having an inspection of nuclear armament system agreed upon between say, the Soviet Union and the United States and some other countries, and then have another country—large—carrying on intensive armaments preparation."

Some estimates by experts in the U.S. are that Communist China probably will begin making nuclear weapons within this decade.

Biggest bargain here

You don't buy gasoline off the shelves in your supermarket, but if you did you'd find Esso one of the cheapest items.

Motorists throughout B.C. buy Esso gasoline for an average price of only 6½ cents a pound. Compared with other commodities in everyday use that's a real bargain.* Of the 6½ cents paid per pound for Esso gasoline, two cents is for federal and provincial taxes that provide such things as social services and new highways. To help bring you this bargain, Imperial Oil is searching for oil in northern B.C. ...drilling wells which will bring B.C. oil to B.C. customers ...has built a modern refinery near Vancouver, new pipe lines, modern marketing facilities. To do these things Imperial has invested more than $80,000,000 in B.C. since 1951 alone.

And yet Imperial receives less on the average for the Esso gasoline it sells today than it did ten years ago... and Esso gasoline today is much more powerful than ten years ago.

*Here's how the price of Esso gasoline compares with the average market price of some other commodities in B.C.

Esso gasoline	6 cents per pound
Table salt	9 cents per pound
Flour	12 cents per pound

ANOTHER SHUTOUT!

United Squad Now Regarded Prime Target

North Shore 0, United 1
By ERNIE FEDORUK

Goalkeeper Barry Sadler and Victoria United continue to pile up shutout victories, but there's one facet of the team's great success in Pacific Coast Soccer League play that worries manager Wally Milligan.

Hard on the heels of United's most difficult match in the second half of league play—Saturday's 1-0 victory over North Shore—came this observation from Milligan:

"From now on, every game will be tougher."

It stems from a growing suspicion that the league's other entries will all be "laying" for United. The men who mastermind the campaigns of the opposition will have no difficulty in "firing up" their charges. Top-dogs are always a prime target.

Milligan, in the meantime, will have to watch for complacency and over-confidence, factors that have beaten better teams when they shouldn't have been beaten.

But before United falls, someone will have to score a goal on Sadler. That, as the records indicate, is no easy feat.

Saturday's shutout before 1,259 fans at Royal Athletic Park was the 10th in 16 league games for 19-year-old Sadler—and his fourth in succession. Coincidentally, North Shore has yet to score a goal against Victoria after four meetings this season.

SMITH DANGEROUS

Sadler earned his shutout if only on the strength of the saves he made against Bob Smith, the North Shore outside left who was by far the most dangerous player for the visitors.

Smith was stopped, in spectacular fashion, midway through the first half and again 15 minutes after the interval. And yet on a third occasion, Sadler pulled the ball off his goal line when Smith's tricky corner kick was partially deflected by fullback Len Anderson.

United, although spasmodic in its play, had enough chances to win the match early but ran into another fine 19-year-old goalkeeper, Roy Breder. Breder, helped by an alert defence, was a stand-out.

He had no chance on the one goal that beat him, by Geoff Hill. It was a beautiful effort, well taken and well directed.

NINE ON LINE

It had to be. Nine North Shore players, including Breder, lined up on the C's goal-line after playing-coach Gogie Stewart was called for interference.

Referee Jack Adams awarded Victoria's Volker Stoldt an indirect free kick, only a few feet from the penalty spot. Stoldt tapped the ball to Hill and United's centre half banged it home.

It was a blazing drive, finding the target by going just under the cross bar. The goal, at 28 minutes of the second half, was the sixth of the season for Geoff.

Hill again was a standout at centre half as Milligan gave Bob Mars (who dressed) still another chance to test his ailing back. Ced Robb started at Hill's usual centre forward's spot.

CORNER KICKS: Centre forward Bill Abbott and centre half Wayne Lorenz, another 19-year-old brought up by North Shore, played extremely well. Timmy Walker, Anderson and Henry Vanderhorst played a strong game for United. North Shore's slow and deliberate passing game continually upset United attackers. An indication of play, perhaps, may be provided by the fact United took 15 flag kicks while North Shore had only five corners.

United, idle next weekend, will take the opportunity to welcome Hill's wife at a club get-together. She arrives from England on Wednesday. Hill, incidentally, has been transferred by his firm to Nalmo and will make his home there. Always reliable Ron Jenkin, United fullback, was slowed down for the balance of the game when he received a painful kick on the ankle in the opening minute of play.

WAKEFORD HEADS SALMON CLUB

Taffy Chief Chinook

Taffy Wakeford was a double winner at the Chinook Club's annual meeting Saturday.

He was elected president of the salmon club for 1962 and was also awarded the Liar's Cup, which goes to the Chinook spinning the tallest yarn at the annual meeting.

Other officers elected were: Dr. Hugh Clarke, honorary president; Wes Fulton, vice-president; Bill Rowe, secretary-treasurer. Directors are Vic Humphries, Cliff Sims, Dan Thomas, Ches Alexander, Bert Southern, Chuck Kinloch, Ray Ritchie, John Rose and Jack Clyde.

TAFFY WAKEFORD

The well-attended meeting voted to continue the club's two annual derbies and watched presentation of prizes won during the past year.

Tony Rosin emerged as the top fisherman, receiving the Currie Cup for boating the largest number of salmon over 20 pounds during 1961—six.

Other prizewinners and weights of their winning catches were:
Mens' Cup, Merv Campbell; Ladies' Cup, Mrs. K. Williams, 20.13; Peetz Cup, Ken Gabriel, 37.11; Sportsman's Cup, Mel Lohr, 18.10; Sylvester Cup, Jim Lee, 19.04; Aloock Shield, Art Midlane, 14.02; coby; Directors' Cup, Vic Humphries, 7.00 coby.

Both Crothers and Kidd ran under the colors of the East York Track Club at Madison Square Garden before a crowd of 16,864.

American Jim Beatty gave New York its fastest indoor mile ever by completing the distance in 4:02.2. He couldn't improve on his 3:58.9 world indoor record set two weeks ago in Los Angeles.

Kidd left behind Pat Cloughy of Houston, Sandor Iharos of Hungary and Jared Nourse of Duke University.

Tee Tussles Chilled
Frosty weather resulted in postponement of Sunday's scheduled open and junior city button golf matches at Uplands Golf Club.

The matches have been rescheduled for next Sunday.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Queen's Cariboo High School and Prince George Polarettes will represent the area at the high school basketball finals next month in Vancouver.

Muriel Chalks Up Bowling 'Double'

Muriel Dodsworth did some fancy flinging in the city women's tenpin handicap tournament at Aurora Lanes on the weekend.

She teamed with Leona Williams to win the doubles, placed fifth in singles and won the all-events scratch.

Her 616 doubles effort, coupled with Leona's 465, gave the pair 1,081. Add their 12 pins handicap for a 1,093 total, and the title. That 616 triple stood up all the way as the high three.

Overall Muriel had a 182 average—a figure very close to the best posted by the city's male kieglers.

Helen Young and Loren Slater combined for a no-handicap total of 1,083 to place second in the doubles.

Behind them came Leona Peterson and Sheila Dovey, 1,017-9-1,026; Barbara Tubman and Joan Rusk, 1,007-15-1,022; and Iris Murrant and Irene Moore, 996-9-1,005.

Marg Craig captured the singles championship, rolling a 546-3-549. Second was Maureen King with a 540 scratch.

The next three: Darlene Taylor, 485-45-531; Anne Goodman, 521; and Muriel Dodsworth, 520 and Valerie King, 436-84-520 (tied).

Darlene Taylor won the all-events handicap with 1,405-135-1,540.

Kidd and Pal Show Winning Form at N.Y.

NEW YORK (CP)—Two Canadian runners captured first places Saturday night among athletes who took part in the 74th United States Amateur Athletic Union indoor track and field championships.

Bruce Kidd, 18, a freshman at the University of Toronto, retained the title in the AAU three-mile event with a winning time of 13 minutes, 48.8 seconds. He first won the three-mile AAU title in 1961.

Another U. of T. student, Bill Crothers, won the 600-yard title in one minute, 10.8 seconds—1½ seconds off the indoor record of 1:09.3 that he had hoped to break.

Both Crothers and Kidd ran under the colors of the East York Track Club at Madison Square Garden before a crowd of 16,864.

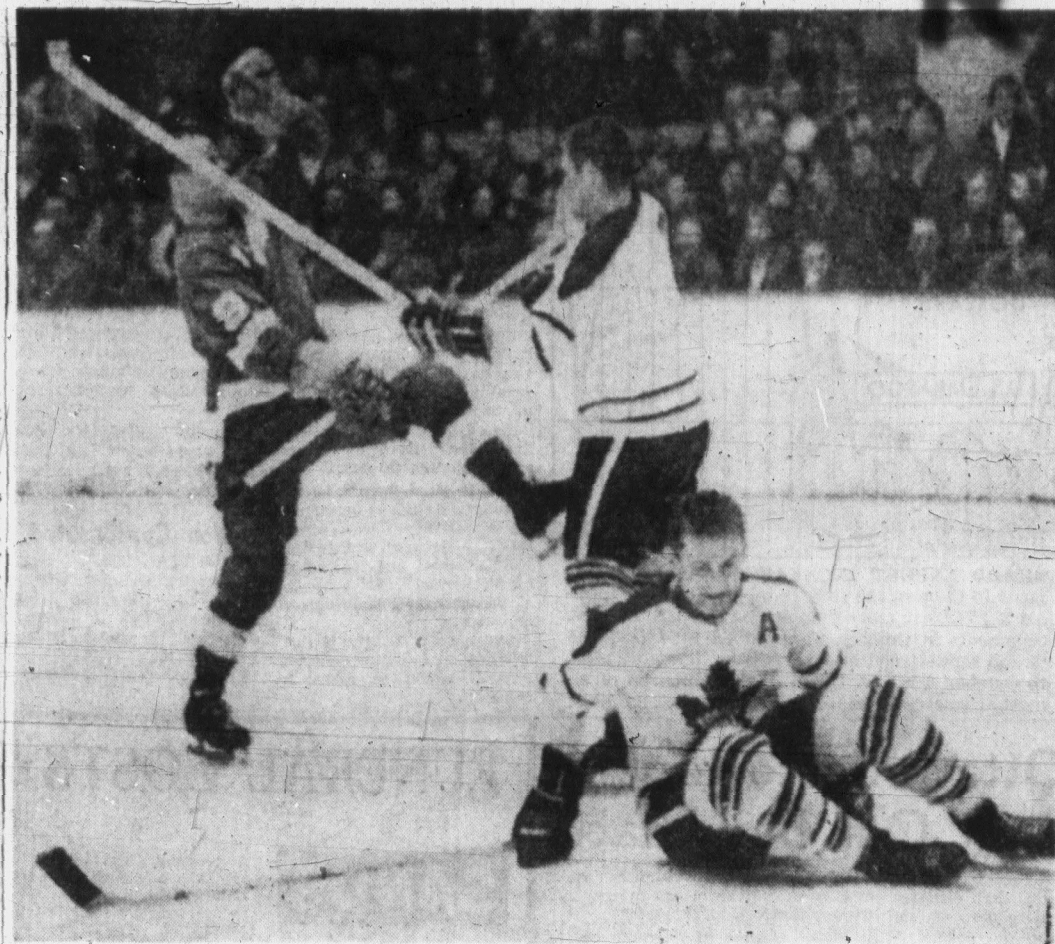

American Jim Beatty gave New York its fastest indoor mile ever by completing the distance in 4:02.2. He couldn't improve on his 3:58.9 world indoor record set two weeks ago in Los Angeles.

Kidd left behind Pat Cloughy of Houston, Sandor Iharos of Hungary and Jared Nourse of Duke University.

Tee Tussles Chilled
Frosty weather resulted in postponement of Sunday's scheduled open and junior city button golf matches at Uplands Golf Club.

The matches have been rescheduled for next Sunday.

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—Queen's Cariboo High School and Prince George Polarettes will represent the area at the high school basketball finals next month in Vancouver.

HOWE'S ABOUT THIS, GORDIE?

Two minutes for "interference" was levy assessed against Toronto's Tim Horton for two-handed stroking of Detroit's Gordie Howe Sunday night at Detroit. Howe went over backwards after Horton's chop. Sitting on ice is Leafs' Allan Stanley who had just previously run into Mr. Howe. Toronto went on to score 8-2 National Hockey League victory. (AP Wirephoto).

Bo's Hot Putter Snaps Drought

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"I almost gave it away a couple of times," said Bo Winger Sunday after he sank a four-foot putt for a birdie on No. 18 to win his first tour victory in nearly six years.

Winger, 39, who plays only occasionally since he quit the Professional Golfers Association circuit 30 months ago, shot a four-under-par 68 for a 281 total to win the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Open by two strokes.

He fashioned his 68 with a 33-35 and withstood pressure from Bob Rosburg, the onetime PGA titlist from Portland, Ore., who finished second.

Doug Sanders, 29, who won here last year, finished third with a 283. Sanders, who plays out of Ojai, Calif., carded a 71 for the final round.

PUTTS 'SUPERBLY'

Winger, whose last victory was the Kansas City Open in 1956, said: "I don't want to boast, but I putted superbly in this tourney."

For Sunday's 18 holes, he one-putted 10 greens. His 72-hole card was 69-71-73-68—281.

His $4,300 pay check for first place in the New Orleans tourney was nearly double the $2,317.50 he won in nine PGA tourneys last year.

It boosted his earnings this year to $5,638.33—and put him in 11th place on the PGA's official money list. He played in four of the seven earlier events this year and plans to leave the tour after this week's $20,000 Baton Rouge Open which starts Thursday.

Elsewhere on the golf front, Al Geiberger of Red Bluff, Calif., got three consecutive birdies on the back nine to win the Caracas Open in Venezuela.

Geiberger, tied for third three strokes back going into the final round, shot a two-under-par 68 and finished with a two-under 278, one up on Jacky Cupit.

Geiberger collected $1,500. George Knudson of Winnipeg tied for 10th place and won $400. His score was 70, 70, 74, 74—288.

In Malaya, Australia's Frank Phillips shot a four-under-par 70 for a 72-hole total of 276 and won the $7,000 Malayan Open.

Tied for second at 277 were fellow Australian Peter Thompson and New Zealand's Bob Charles.

EDMONTON (CP)—Signing of Joel Arrington, 21-year-old halfback from Duke University, was announced by Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Football Conference.

Bruins Have to Agree Kiwi XV Impressive

New Zealand's Combined Universities' rugby team, which plays Victoria's representative side here on March 17, is away to a flying start on its Pacific Coast tour.

The New Zealanders launched their six-week tour Saturday at Los Angeles by trouncing the University of California at Los Angeles 37-3.

Reports of the game state that the crowd continually applauded the New Zealanders for their handling and passing and one expert observed: "The equal of it has seldom—if ever—been seen in the Los Angeles area."

Leafs, Hawks Enjoy Rich Goal Harvest

(Times News Service)
Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks were the rich reapers in the National Hockey League's 46-goal harvest at the weekend.

The Leafs and Hawks, battling for second place, each took turns feasting on Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings.

Toronto, led by Dave Keon, George Armstrong and Ed Litzenberger, slapped down the hapless Bruins 7-2 on home ice Saturday night, then followed up with an 8-2 rout of the Wings at Detroit Sunday night.

The trio accounted for 19 scoring points, Keon getting seven and Armstrong and Litzenberger six each.

EIGHTH SHUTOUT

Chicago, meanwhile, drubbed the Wings 6-1 in a Saturday game at Detroit and belted the Bruins 8-0 on home ice Sunday night as goalie Glenn Hall kicked out 27 shots for his eighth shutout of the season.

Bobby Hull scored once in each game for the Black Hawks. The runaway Montreal Canadiens emerged with a win and a tie in a home-and-home series with New York Rangers.

	W	L	T	P	Pts
Montreal	35	11	12	221	135
Toronto	31	19	8	198	155
Chicago	27	29	12	158	67
New York	22	28	10	171	182
Detroit	20	37	11	138	148
Boston	12	42	6	148	274

The Habitués, led by Dickie Moore's two goals, whipped the Rangers 4-2 at Montreal Saturday night. At New York Sunday night, the Canadiens needed a late goal by Bobby Rousseau to earn a 3-3 tie.

At Detroit, Bob Pulford took two goals for the Leafs while Keon, Litzenberger, Armstrong, Mahovich, Billy Harris and defenceman Tim Horton each got one.

Both Detroit goals came late in the second period with Claude LaFarge and rookie Larry Jeffrey getting them.

Substitute goalie Hank Basen was the victim of the Toronto onslaught: He was back in the nets after veteran Terry Sawchuk, returning to action after a three-week layoff, was bombed by the Hawks Saturday.

Our Skating Team 'Strongest' Ever

TORONTO (CP)—Canada will field its strongest-ever team at the world figure skating championships in Prague next month, an official said Saturday night at the close of the Canadian championships.

Nigel Stephens, president of the Canadian Figure Skating Association, said the 16 skaters who will wear Canada's colors March 14-19 make up "the strongest team we've ever had."

All but two of the 16 come from Ontario, and Ontario skaters also made a clean sweep of the national titles.

The team:
Men—Don Jackson, Oshawa; Don McPherson, Stratford.

Ladies—Wendy Griner, Petra Burka, both of Toronto.

Dance—Virginia Thompson and Bill McLachlan, Toronto; Donna Lee and John Mitchell, Vancouver; Paulette Doan and Ken Ormsby, Toronto.

Pairs—Maria and Otto Jelinek, Bronte; Gertrude Desjardins and Maurice Lafrance, Toronto; Debbie Wilkes and Guy Revel, Unionville.

DOES TRIPLE LUTZ
During the exacting competition defending senior champions all retained their Canadian titles. Miss Griner, 17, retained her women's senior title; Jackson, 21, had little difficulty keeping his men's title; the Jelinks turned in a top performance in capturing the pairs and Miss Thompson and McLachlan's routine kept the senior dance trophy in their names.

Loudest applause of the Saturday night final went to Jackson, when he executed the daring triple lutz—three complete mid-air turns from a backward take-off.

CC GIRL THIRD
Miss Griner's compulsory and free skating exhibition received the same high praise from the judges and in each case Miss Burka was second, followed by Shirra Kenworthy of Vancouver.

Skaters from Ontario took all the junior titles. Valerie Jones, 13, of Toronto, won handsily over 10 other competitors in the women's competition while Bill Neale, 18, Fort Erie, came from behind to win the junior men's crown.

Junior dance title went to Carole Forest, 18, and Kevin Lethbridge, 22, both of Toronto.

Chris Shields, 19, and his sister Alexis, 16, Toronto, were winners of the junior pairs competition.

Athletics Heading For Sweep
It will be a case of do or die for Victoria's Haida Chiefs here next Friday in the third game of the Vancouver Island senior "A" men's basketball final.

Chiefs dropped their second straight game to Alberni Athletics, in the best-of-five series Saturday night at Alberni, going down to an 89-57 defeat.

Athletics won Friday's opening game, 93-63.

Saturday's scoring:
Alberni: Pantam 11, Gridle 19, Kregg 12, Taylor 9, Model 18, McPherson 10, McKay 6, Brown 6, Total—88.

Chiefs: Devlin 15, Solter 16, McCulloch 16, Wilson 2, Spotswood 4, Steele 6, Collet 4, Total—87.

Baseball Booming

HAVANA (AP)—The government claims more people than ever are attending baseball games in Cuba, now that the major leagues are manned "100 per cent by amateurs."

It says 73,023 more fans attended the first 20 games of the 1962 amateur season than the same number of games of the last pro season, 1960-61.

Crabbe Keeps Hotel Crew In Cup Chase

It was Chummy Crabbe to the rescue Sunday as Gorge Hotel remained in the running for the Province Cup.

Gorge, winner of the Victoria and District Football League's Jackson Cup competition and loser of only two league games this season, tackled Nanaimo at Heywood Avenue and ran into a Coal-town crew that was having its best day of the season.

Nanaimo, winner of only three league matches, almost upset the Gorge apple cart in Sunday's Island zone Province Cup semifinal.

Crabbe, a former winger who has been a going concern since shifting to centre forward, gave the Hotelmen a 1-0 halftime lead.

ALBERTI WINS

But in a seesaw struggle that could have gone either way, Nanaimo knotted the count 20 minutes after the intermission on a goal by Ron Sandes and was threatening to pull out a victory before Chummy scampered through to douse the threat, connecting for his second tally in the closing stages.

In another Province Cup semi, Alberni nudged Ladysmith 1-0 and will meet Gorge in the Island zone final next

JBAA Seems Fit After Extra Work

If extra work helps, James Bay Athletic Association players should be in top condition for next week-end's opening playoff game in the Victoria Rugby Unions first division.

James Bay warmed up to the task of tackling the Victoria College "A" side by playing two weekend games and scoring a pair of shutouts in the bargain.

Saturday, the Bays bounced Naval Technical School 20-0 and Sunday they went back to work and thumped Royal Roads 19-0.

Trys by Jack Patrick (two), Harry Turner, Paul Brighton, and Roy Vollinger, plus a penalty goal and conversion by Gordie Hemmingway accounted for Saturday's points. On Sunday it was try by Patrick, George Wilson, Adam Ustiek and Pat Cornell and a pair of conversions by Wilson that beat Royal Roads.

In another Saturday match,

Victoria Midgets Take Healthy Lead

A win would be fine but Victoria needs only a tie tonight to win the Island bantam hockey championships.

The city shinny kids lead Nanaimo 4-3 in goals going into the second game (5:45 p.m. at Memorial Arena) of their two-game total-goals series.

City juvenile playoffs start Tuesday at 6 p.m. when Aces and Leafs hook up in a best-of-three series.

Victoria beat Nanaimo 6-2 Sunday at Memorial Arena in the first game of a two-game total-goal series for the Island midget crown. Don Wilson and George Fuller with two goals each, and Harvey Stevenson and Mike McAvoy scored for Victoria. Kerry Kneen and Lorne McKenzie scored for Nanaimo. Second game will be played Tuesday at Nanaimo.

In pee wee playoffs, Royals tripped Maroons, 9-2; Capitals cleaned Senators, 3-0; and Flyers tied Bombers 2-2, all in first games of total-goal series.

In Division I, Tom Thumb League semifinals, Maple Leafs blanked Bruins, 2-0; and Canadens cuffed Red Wings, 3-0. Winners meet in the finals.

In Division II, it was Detroit over Montreal, 5-0, and Toronto over Boston, 1-0.

NAVY TIES IAA Variety Spices Playoff Menu

A whirlwind finish resulting in a tie, a fight between a player and a spectator, and a penalty-free game involving Nanaimo.

This was the Vancouver Island Amateur Hockey League playoff menu Saturday at Memorial Arena.

Navy and Independent Athletic Association battled to a 4-4 draw. Since a game followed league officials couldn't call an overtime session.

IAA, leading their best-of-three semifinal 1-0, will get a chance to wrap it March 6 or March 8 at Memorial Arena.

The fight occurred shortly after IAA's Bob Anderson was sent to the penalty box. An enthusiastic fan, weary of exchanging insults with Anderson, came down from his seat and began swapping punches with the player. No one was seriously wounded.

Navy appeared to have the game wrapped up when Jock McAvoy fired them into a 4-3 lead at 18:34 of the final period. But IAA came back to tie it up at 19:07. Del Brown scored it after Ed Varga did the legwork.

Nanaimo had little trouble with Port Alberni, trouncing the "farm club" 11-3. Jim Middleton, a Nanaimo player on loan to the Ports, scored all three goals for them.

In a spectacular upset, Physician, a rank outsider, won the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap at Arcadia, Calif., Saturday. Alberta Ranches' Four-and-Twenty, the 3-40-5 choice, finished third.

Physician, a five-year-old gelding who ran as an entry with Prove It and Olden Times, came tearing out of nowhere in the stretch and was pulling away from Olden Times and Four-and-Twenty at the wire.

The winner, a probable 100-to-1 shot if he had run alone, won by two and one-half lengths over Olden Times. Physician carried 114 pounds, 15 less than Four-and-Twenty and one more than Olden Times.

CARRY BACK NIPPED

It was upset day at Hialeah Track near Miami, Fla., too. There, Calumet Farms' Yorky beat Carry Back by a neck in the $134,800 Widener Handicap.

It was the first victory for Yorky, five-year-old son of Bull Lea, since he won the same stakes last year. Yorky ran as an entry with Beau Prince at odds of 19-to-5.

Carry Back, 11-to-10 favorite, staged a pulse-tingling finish and was beaten by a neck. Ambipose was third, three lengths back, and Beau Prince fourth.

Running on a good track, slightly sprinkled with rain between races, Physician covered the one and one-quarter miles in 2:02 3/5, to win $100,000.

Olden Times picked up $20,000 for second and Four-and-Twenty, owned by Calgary sportsman Max Bell and Frank McMahon, won $15,000.

Sparrow Castle, a 16-to-1 shot which finished fourth, earned $10,000.

Physician, winner of $47,776 all last year and only $3,700 this meeting until Saturday, was last in the field of 13 passing the clubhouse and didn't improve his position until he entered the far turn. His jockey, Don Pierce, whipped him all through his winning stretch run.

Yorky's victory at Hialeah made it eight victories for Calumet Farms in 25 runnings of the Widener.

Oak Bay Couldn't Stop the Totems

By ROBIN JEFFREY

"You can't top the Totems!" That's been a favorite yell of Victoria High School cheerleaders during the basketball season and it proved appropriate again Saturday.

The Totems powered their way to a 60-40 win over Oak Bay High in the final round of the annual interscholastic hoop tournament at Vic High. Their second straight victory over Oak Bay rivals gave the Totems possession of the Times Interscholastic Trophy.

In addition to the tourney title, the Vic High squad also saw forward Neil Worboys awarded the H. L. Smith Shield as the tournament's most valuable player.

Worboys turned in an outstanding performance Saturday, working well on defence and scoring 10 points. Ken Gregory and John Lauvaas netted 12 and eight points respectively for the Totems before fouling out of the game.

Jim Walters, Jim Pomeroy and Bruce Robertson each managed eight points for the Bays, who appeared outgunned from the start and apparently missed the services of rebound ace Doug Richardson, who suffered a broken foot last week.

MT. DOUGLAS SECOND

Vic High Wins Island Crown

By GORDON POLLARD

A Cinderella Mount Douglas squad has earned a spot along with Victoria Totemettes in the provincial senior girls high school basketball tournament.

The two teams qualified for the B.C. playoff at Vancouver, March 15, 16 and 17, by reaching the final round of the fifth annual Vancouver Island tournament, which wound up Saturday night at Esquimalt.

Totemettes had been expected to reach the Island final, but Mount Douglas, going into the tourney as a dark horse, sprang an upset in Saturday's second-round games by tripping Tsolum High 28-22.

Appearing weary after the triumph over Tsolum, Mount Douglas never seriously threatened Vic High in the final, dropping a 38-25 decision to the Totemettes, who were sparked by the steady play of Mary Pearson and Sue Mason.

Tsolum nailed down third place by edging a stubborn Nanaimo team 17-14, and Ladysmith nipped Alberni 26-23 in another tight battle to take fourth place.

MOST VALUABLE

Some consolation for Mount Douglas came when Pat Donaldson was selected as the tourney's most valuable player and was named to the first all-star team.

Miss Mason and Miss Pearson also earned all-star berths along with Alice Hoekstra of Alberni and Esquimalt's Lorraine Hyne.

Voted to the second all-star squad were Margarte Burns (Tsolum), Sylvia Campbell (Mount Douglas), Arlene Perry (Victoria High), Maxine Smith (Alberni) and Bobby Jean-Tosko (Ladysmith).

Scoring:

FINAL ROUND
 Victoria High—Ennis 4, Pearson 10, Taeger 1, Streeter 4, Scott 2, Mason 9, Perry 6, Total 38.
 Mount Douglas—Donaldson 5, Banner 2, Fisher 4, Donaldson 12, Williams 3, Total 28.
 Tsolum—Stachan 2, Lee 4, Phillip 2, Burns 7, M. Burns 2, Total 17.
 Nanaimo—Dodge 4, Hogan 7, Kottin 1, Pratt 2, Total 14.
 Oak Bay—Mitchell 9, Faulkner 3, Elliot 10, Total 22.
 Esquimalt—Butte 3, Hyne 15, Hatcher 12, Total 20.
 Ladysmith—Tosko 10, Frane 5, Platt 8, Total 23.
 Alberni—Watts 5, Smith 2, Hoekstra 5, Franover 1, Trotter 3, Total 15.

SECOND ROUND
 Mount Douglas 28, Tsolum 22; Victoria High 25, Nanaimo 19; Ladysmith 33, Esquimalt 26; Alberni 40, Oak Bay 20.

Vikings Fare Poorly

Victoria College Vikings broke even in a pair of Saturday-night clashes with visiting university squads.

On the ice at Esquimalt Sports Centre, the Vikings went down to a 6-2 hockey defeat before the Gonzaga Bulldogs of Spokane.

Bill Harstead, with two tallies, Clare Taylor, Al Pasqualotto, Len O'Byrne and Ed Sibald took care of the Bulldog sniping chores while Fred Veysey and Keith Neilligan were scoring for Vikings.

There was also a reversal for Vikings on the basketball court at Gordon Head, Beaten 70-57 Friday by UBC Jayvees, the Victorians Saturday lost another to the Jayvees, 80-51.

Helping to make it a happy basketball evening for the College were the Vikettes, who recovered from a shaky start to edge UBC junior women's team, 25-23.

Make sure that you provide for yourself in your Life Insurance program...

LIFE INSURANCE...

① Clean up Cash
 ② Mortgage fund
 ③ income for the family

what about ME at 65?

Your life insurance should, first of all, provide for your wife and children. But the job doesn't stop there. Make sure that you also include INCOME FOR YOURSELF. You would need it, if you should become disabled. And you will need money to live on when you retire and your earnings stop. Life insurance with savings values can then provide you with a guaranteed income which you can't lose, and can't outlive. At the same time, part of your protection can be continued on a "paid-up" basis . . . And during your savings period, if you should need cash in an emergency, it will serve as the best kind of collateral.

Build your savings program with life insurance—and make sure of money for the future.

Massive Drug Seizure

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal narcotics bureau official says addicts throughout the U.S. will feel the effects of the police seizure Saturday night of heroin valued at $25,000,000 on the illicit market.

The 88 pounds—40 kilos—was reported as the second largest haul in U.S. history. Federal agents had bagged 100 kilos last October with the arrest of the Guatemalan ambassador to Belgium, Mauricio Rosal, who now is serving 15 years in prison.

The heroin confiscated by city narcotics detectives Saturday was contained in two bags carried by Anthony Fuca, 31, a Bronx longshoreman whose father, brother and sister-in-law were arrested after 24 pounds were found cached in the father's Brooklyn apartment Jan. 18.

George Gaffney, district supervisor of the federal bureau of narcotics, said Sunday the seizure here "will be felt not only in New York, but in such cities as Chicago, Washington and Philadelphia. This is because New York supplied 80 per cent of the country's heroin."

Fuca was arraigned Sunday on a charge of possessing narcotics and was ordered held under $50,000 bail.

At the time of the arrest, he was out on $22,500 bail in connection with the raid on his father's apartment.

The father, Joseph, his son, Pasquale, and the latter's wife, Barbara, were held in $100,000 bail each on charges of possession of narcotics growing out of the earlier raid.

SINUS INFECTION causing occasional fever, has caused Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of U.S. president, to postpone by eight days her India-Pakistan tour. She now is due to start March 12. Mrs. Kennedy, Sunday, went water skiing and took a dunking.

KATANGA BATTLE STILL DANGER

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) The United Nations' chief in the Congo said today he is trying to discourage the central government from building up its military forces in north Katanga province. He described the area as explosive.

Robert K. A. Gardiner of Ghana told reporters the initial panic over the reoccupation of Katanga by Katanga troops had not been found justified.

But he said aftermaths of the Katanga move—specifically the airlifting of Congolese troops into the north Katanga strong point of Albergville—indicated open battle between the central government and Katanga is still a serious danger, despite Katanga President Moise Tshombe's announced intention to come to Leopoldville for unity talks with Premier Cyrille Adoula.

Dief Eager for Election

EDMONTON (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Saturday night he looks forward with anticipation to the next election, "however near or far it is," so that the Progressive Conservative government can place its record before the people.

The prime minister, addressing 800 persons at the closing banquet of the Alberta Progressive Conservative Association, added:

"While I don't like elections—frequently—I do look forward to placing this record of national development before the people of Canada."

He said Opposition Leader Pearson continually tells the government to look ahead and not look back.

"They want to forget their past," he said of the Liberals. "We're going to the people on the record. Whether the Liberals like it or not, they're going on their record."

The prime minister said he has never known members of parliament so anxious for an election as the present Conservative MPs.

He accused the Liberals of conducting a "calamity chorus" for four long years, preaching gloom and doom.

Editor, Husband in Prison Over Segregation Incident

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP)—The fashion editor of The Washington Post and her husband were arrested Sunday night during a dispute at a restaurant which refused to seat four Negroes.

Gerald G. Wagner, 42, of Kensington, Md., was held in lieu of $1,500 bond on charges of trespassing and resisting arrest. Mrs. Ruth Wagner, 39, the editor, was freed in her own custody after authorities charged her with interfering with a police officer. Her bond was set at $500.

State police gave this account of the dispute:

The Wagners and their two children were seated in Harley's Restaurant at Queenstown, Md., when four Negro students sought service and were told they could only buy food to take out.

Wagner, offering to explain the state's trespassing law to the Negroes, escorted them to his car. Meanwhile, a waitress summoned state police.

Two troopers arrived, ordered Wagner to leave and arrested him when he put up a brief argument. He was taken to county jail.

PROTESTS ARREST

Police arrested the fashion editor when she protested her husband's arrest. The Negroes drove off in another car. Mrs. Wagner said in a statement to The Post that her husband had asked troopers for permission to finish his explanation to the Negro students.

At this point, she said, the troopers grabbed her husband, pulled him toward one of the squad cars and handcuffed him.

A spokesman at the Eastern state police said:

Md. barracks said he did not know why the waitress called police in the first place.

However, the spokesman said the trespassing law empowers the proprietor of such an establishment to summon officers if patrons ordered to leave decline to do so.

The law allows the proprietor to decline service and to dismiss unwanted customers, state police said.

Fist Fights End 'Model' Parliament

MONTREAL (CP)—What was supposed to be a model parliament session by a group of university students was dissolved Saturday in a fisty skirmish.

The students squared off after two hours of debate in the annual mock parliament at Sir George Williams University.

No one was hurt but one observer described the flare-up as "spirited."

It started with a vote of non-confidence in the 22-member Liberal student government by 14 students representing the Progressive Conservatives and 13 of the New Democratic Party.

The Liberal leader, Lionel Chetwynd, decided to call a new election by the student body. But there was fierce protest and the Liberals stalked from the floor to the visitor's gallery.

When the members of the two other parties started to continue the session undeterred, the Liberals seated in the gallery broke into loud singing and threw taunts.

Sitting members rushed into the gallery to evict them and the fight was on.

When things calmed down, the three parties agreed another election should be held March 7.

HELP YOUR CHILD SUCCEED IN SCHOOL

Persistent Thinking The Key to Learning

BY LESLIE J. NASON, D. Ed.
University of Southern California

If children don't pay attention when they cross a busy street, there is likely to be trouble.

There's also likely to be trouble—serious trouble—if they don't pay attention when they study.

Paying close attention is a habit of thinking and it brings wonderful rewards in and out of school.

Children need to realize that many ideas can be understood only through effort. They must learn to put forth the right kind of effort.

Every time a student quits before he learns an essential lesson or solves an important problem, his learning ability drops.

Every time he puts forth the right effort and stays with it until he gets it, his learning ability increases.

Persistent thinking is the key.

Students who attend to each job at hand and give it their whole-hearted attention make the highest grades in school and get the best jobs afterward.

Patience is needed to help children establish habits of focusing attention on study or any job at hand.

Fortunately, psychology is on the side of the parents.

A boy who does his arithmetic assignment well and fast gets satisfaction—and he has more time to play.

Full Attention

A student who focuses his attention on one question at a time in an examination gets a better grade. He gives each question his full attention, answers it to the best of his ability, then forgets it and goes on to the next question.

Several years ago a young man returning from his tour of duty with the Navy entered the university where I teach to continue the study of electronics he had started in the Navy. He had considerable difficulty with trigonometry.

Understand Ideas

In attempting to find out why I came to realize that he was not trying to understand the ideas of trigonometry. He was reading it like a novel, and you can't learn trigonometry that way.

"Read the problem and tell me what it means," I asked him.

He floundered in his explanation.

"Read it again and tell me exactly what it means," I persisted.

That time he knew. And he solved the problem. He had discovered a new and powerful thought process.

It Worked Well

He started studying each subject with a real effort to gain understanding rather than memorize facts and processes. He completed his courses successfully and now holds an excellent job with an aircraft firm.

It is well for parents to form the habit of saying to their children, "Read what the book says and tell me exactly what it means." It gives them practice in focussing their thoughts.

Next: Encourage curiosity and creativity.

Guiana 'Saved' by People

GEORGETOWN (CP)—Ewart Regier, CCF-NDP member of the Canadian Commons for Burnaby-Coquitlam, believes recent disorders in British Guiana could have developed into a bloody revolution were it not for the fact that the East Indian and Negro populations are generally opposed to violence.

"The power of Gandhi's philosophy and the non-violent philosophy of the African have saved this country from a bloody revolution," said Mr. Regier, who came here for a three-week visit at the invitation of Premier Cheddi Jagan.

Mr. Regier witnessed the "Black Friday" riots which culminated in a week of demonstrations and strikes, called to protest new taxes proposed by Premier Jagan. British troops finally were called in to restore order after some $30,000,000 damage had been caused by fire and looting.

He said that when independence is granted by Britain, "a Colombo plan and various United Nations agencies will surely do much to help. But in addition to this kind of aid, if democracy is to be preserved, Britain will have to undertake extraordinary economic development in British Guiana."

Mr. Regier said that on his return home he plans to appeal to all levels of the Canadian community to give practical assistance to British Guiana.

FIRST CASE HEARD IN NEW COURTHOUSE

'I Hate to Be Disagreeable Today, But ...'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Victoria's new $2,000,000 courthouse began its legal history at 10:30 today when Judge J. B. Clearhugh—a native son—welcomed counsel and witnesses to the first case to be heard there.

"We are proud to be the first to hold court in this magnificent new building," said the judge as he took his seat on the bench of the blue-carpeted County Court on the second floor.

DAMAGE SUIT

Both appeared as rival counsel in a dispute over damages following a two-car collision near Chemainus on Jan. 25, 1961.

Judge Clearhugh noted that Mr. Gregory, Miss Harrison and himself were all descendants of Victoria's pioneer citizens.

"It is fitting perhaps that we should open proceedings in a new phase of Victoria's legal history."

Judge Clearhugh, who was born here in 1887, extended congratulations to Public Works Minister W. N. Chant and his staff on "the fine job they have done."

"We have had three law court buildings in this city and the last two were filled with memories of the last century. I confess I was somewhat loath to leave the old building on Bastion Square ... but I am sure this new courthouse will have a future as illustrious as the past."

LIGHT-HEARTED

Proceedings in County Court began in a light-hearted atmosphere. Soon after Miss Harrison had opened her case for the plaintiff (John Kulak of Chemainus), Mr. Gregory rose on a point of law, adding: "I hate to be disagreeable on this first day in our new home, but ..."

A while later, Judge Clearhugh remarked that he needed "another cushion" as he could not see clearly over the top of his high desk.

"I think there are one or two bugs we have to get out of here."

Camera Kit, Guns Stolen From House

A camera kit valued at $440 and two guns were stolen from a Victoria man Saturday evening.

S. R. Madsen, 825 Foul Bay Road, lost the articles from his room sometime after 8:30 p.m.

Mr. Madsen called police early Sunday morning when he discovered the theft.

He described the following as stolen: a 35 mm. camera valued at $350, a light meter valued at $40, a tan leather camera kit containing film and filter equipment valued at $50. The two guns the thief made off with were a 30-30 Winchester rifle and a .22 Ruger revolver.

Entrance was believed gained through a basement window.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Paul Apro, 3516 Calumet, running red light, $15 and licence suspended.

Donald Rolph, 841 Esquimalt Road, careless driving, $40 and licence suspended.

Jack Heanski, 1377 Hillside, careless driving, $35.

Volker Stoldt, 1681 Freeman, over 30 mph, $15, driving licence restriction $15.

Robert Urquhart, HMCS Fraser, no driver's licence, $15.

Parking Ease-Up Requested

Two-hour parking restrictions on streets in the Royal Athletic Park area were criticized today by Ald. J. L. W. McLean.

He said the restrictions, on Caledonia and North Park Streets, should be lifted on Saturdays so that football enthusiasts would not be harassed by police.

"Several people have complained to me that they have been given parking tickets by police while watching after their children," he said.

"I don't think traffic conditions on Saturdays require these restrictions."

He said he would take the matter up with the city engineer's department to see if the restrictions could be removed, at least for weekends.

of this new building," answered Mr. Gregory. "The other day, Your Honor, I took the liberty of sitting in your chair and I could hardly see the witness stand."

"But then you are not as tall as I am," smiled Judge Clearhugh.

Before the court opened, Miss Harrison remarked that the new courtroom, with its panelled walls, purple-backed chairs and muted-blue carpet, were in good taste "from the woman's point of view."

Half an hour after the county court went into session, divorce proceedings were begun in the Supreme Court next door. But Mr. Justice T. W. Brown from Vancouver, made no remark when the court opened.

Outside the courtrooms, there was some confusion as lawyers, witnesses and persons seeking legal information wandered round the corridors looking for the appropriate courts and offices.

One visitor complained of being "stuck" in an elevator which would not move off the first floor for several minutes; and some lawyers had difficulty finding their robing room. Files, books and packing cases were strewn over the floor of the court registry on the first floor as members of the staff sorted themselves out in their new quarters. But the corridors were filled with bright sunshine, and many enjoyed the fine view of the Olympic Mountains.

8-Month Term For Driving While Impaired

A Victoria motorist was given eight months in jail and had his licence suspended for three years by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court today.

John Alexander Swezey, 1124 McKenzie Street, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and driving while his licence was under suspension.

It was his third conviction on the same charges within two years. Court was told Swezey drove his car over the curb at Johnson and Douglas Streets and was caught later on Yates Street.

"BLACKED OUT"

He told the magistrate he had no recollection of the incident, saying he was "blacked out" at the time.

"I have a job lined up beginning March 28, and I would ask this be taken into consideration," Swezey said.

Magistrate Ostler told him a jail sentence is mandatory for the third offence and he wouldn't consider the appeal in any case.

"Under these circumstances jail is the only sentence," he said.

Swezey received four months not concurrent on each of the two charges.

BULB MEN CHEER CHILL

Overnight temperatures as low as 12 degrees chilled Victorians but warmed the hearts of bulb growers.

Weatherman William MacKie said the official low at Gonzales was 26 degrees but readings ranged from 15 in-land to 26 near the sea.

A ground-level temperature of 12 degrees was recorded at Mattick's Farm, 5325 Cordova Bay Road.

Local bulb growers were elated. If the chill continues, daffodil and tulip growth will be retarded so they will bloom at Easter which is late this year.

"This weather is just ideal," said G. A. Vantreigh, 4437 Tyndall, "I could stand about two weeks of it."

The low of 26 ties the record for Feb. 26 which was set in 1955. Lowest February temperature recorded in Greater Victoria was 9.2 degrees on Feb. 7, 1946.

The current cold snap is expected to continue through Tuesday with similar low readings overnight and a high of about 40 degrees Tuesday.

Cold Night Out For Adventurers

Two Campbell River boys, missing since Sunday, today were plucked from treacherous Georgia Strait waters in an air-sea rescue operation 15 miles south of Quadra Island.

Douglas and James Scoones, eight and nine respectively, who spent the night in a row boat appeared none the worse for their experience.

The brothers were spotted in a nine-foot fibreglass boat by two RCAF air-sea rescue aircraft and a B.C. Airlines plane at about 11:30 a.m.

The boat was becalmed three miles south of Mithenatch Island, south of Cape Mudge on Quadra Island.

While RCAF planes dropped smoke markers to pinpoint the boat, Gordon Wilkinson, B.C. Airlines pilot, swooped down and landed on the water.

He took the boys aboard, leaving the boat to be picked up by an RCMP launch.

Despite the fact they wore only light clothing, the boys appeared to have suffered no ill effects from their night out in an open boat.

Mr. Scoones, an employee of Catermole Logging Co., said they complained of being a "bit cold."

"But apparently they were not afraid," he said. "At least they did not seem to be."

The boys became the object of a search when they failed to return home Sunday afternoon after leaving to play in the park.

The boys, without consulting their mother, decided instead to go for a row in Discovery Passage. The boat was caught in a strong current and drifted into the strait.

Fishermen said the boat was found becalmed in a spot situated between two strong and treacherous currents.

One current would have taken them to treacherous waters off Cape Mudge on the south end of Quadra Island, and the other along Sutil Channel, east of Quadra.

When the boys were first reported missing at 7 p.m., Sunday, police first conducted a land search, believing they may have got lost in nearby woods.

It was not until this morning that two schoolboys, Graham and Ian Ellis reported seeing the pair in the boat Sunday.

Police said 12-year-old Donovan Neff, son of Harold W. Neff, 351 View Royal, apparently fell into sawdust in a bin in his basement and ingested a large quantity with his first involuntary gasp.

The boy's lungs were described as "almost completely full" of sawdust and one St. Joseph's Hospital official said "it was a miracle he lived as long as he did."

A friend of the dead boy, Murray Coombes, 41 Tovey Crescent, had apparently come over to play about 1:30 p.m. and the pair had gone down to the basement.

"He went to the sawdust bin to put some in the furnace," said Murray.

"CHOKING"

"I heard some noises and went after him. He was lying on the floor, partly covered with sawdust, and choking. His mouth was full of sawdust and I got him to spit it out."

"I helped him upstairs to his bedroom and made him lie down. In a minute I helped him to the bathroom to see if he could throw up what was choking him, then back to his room."

"Then I got his father's phone number at work and called him, and ran across the road to get Mr. Cleghorn (Kenneth Cleghorn, 350 View Royal)."

"He came over, then called a doctor from nearby and an ambulance, and they took Donovan away."

BOY SCOUT

The dead boy was a Boy Scout in the View Royal troop, a member of the YMCA and a student at Esquimalt Junior High.

He is survived by the parents; two brothers, Barry Harold and Robin Harvey and a maternal grandmother. Mr. Neff is president of Saanich Lumber Yards Ltd., 3041 Douglas.

Funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in McCall Bros. funeral chapel, followed by interment in Royal Oak Cemetery.

Tenant Returns, Thief Takes Off

A burglar ran from an apartment Sunday when the occupant returned while he was searching the premises.

Mrs. L. B. Heath, 1731 Cook, told police she entered her flat just after 12 noon and saw a man fleeing through the rear door.

She described him as 5 feet 10 inches tall and well dressed in a dark blue suit.

He had apparently entered the building by climbing up a fire escape and climbing through an open window.

Mrs. Heath said nothing was stolen.

MLAs Hear Both Barrels In Trading Stamp Furore

The trading stamp war flared before the legislature today when three groups—two opposed and one in favor—presented briefs to a special committee.

Their arguments revolved chiefly around the effect of stamps on the price of groceries.

The Retail Merchants' Association and the Consumers' Association of Canada both maintained the cost to customers was increased 2 per cent to customers.

The RMA said if all stores had stamps this would put B.C.'s annual food bill up $8,000,000.

Super Valu Stores Ltd., one of three now offering stamps, said the initial cost of stamps to the merchant was 2 per cent of his sales, but that the overall cost to the customer had been found to be only .5 per cent.

66,000 LETTERS

The RMA brought to the special legislative committee cartons containing 70,915 letters and cards from the public opposed to stamps.

A spokesman for Super Valu said about 40,000 cards in favor had been mailed either to their offices or Attorney General Robert Bonner.

Super Valu, represented by public relations man Gordon Root, said a recent Gallup poll in Eastern Canada showed 59 per cent in favor of stamps, 39 per cent against, and 2 per cent undecided.

Mr. Root maintained that existing legislation banning third-party participation in distributing stamps should be repealed. This would allow small independent merchants to offer stamps which they could not now afford to print themselves.

GIVEN CHOICE

He said also that customers should be given the choice of stamps or cash equal to their value when they pay their grocery bills.

Mr. Root said that not all merchants would use stamps if they were made completely legal, because they would have to remain competitive and a certain number would cater to the 39 per cent of the public opposed to stamps.

He maintained that opposition to stamps was based on "emotionalism" rather than fact.

He admitted that customers are not "getting something for nothing" but said that on a $10 grocery order, a customer pays 6 cents for stamps and receives 20 cents worth of premium in return.

The consumers' association brief was presented by provincial president Mrs. A. W. McGhie of Vancouver.

"PARASITICAL"

She said it was supported by the provincial League of Women and the Business and Professional Women's Club. She said stamps "are purely parasitical."

"They vastly increase the soaring expenses of doing business; delay at checkout desks; cost of storage, printing and filling of order of premiums; extra bookkeeping—all these added costs come out of our pockets."

The brief called for permanent abolition of stamps, and similar plans in B.C.

Man Injured When Car Strikes Tree

A Sidney man is in fairly good condition today in Royal Jubilee Hospital after an accident in which his car struck a tree in Oak Bay Saturday afternoon.

Gavin Davis, 9813 Second Street, suffered face cuts and chest injuries.

Oak Bay police said his car left the paved portion of the street in the 1800 block Hampshire and crashed into a large oak tree.

The small car sustained about $500 damage.

Tom Hopkins, 16, of 4435 Torquay, was taken to hospital Saturday when he was in collision with a car while riding his bicycle.

The accident occurred at Shelbourne and Ruby. Police identified the car driver as Alexander Rogers, 1278 Filmer.

The boy was treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital for a bump on the head and bruises to the arms and legs.

ROLLED OVER

At about 5:30 p.m. Saturday a car driven by John James Wheeler, 3815 Carey, went out of control on Royal Oak Avenue and rolled over in a spectacular crash. Driver escaped with minor cuts, but the car was considered a total loss.

Shortly after 10 p.m. a car driven west on Bay by Blake Childs, 529 Constance, collided with a car parked at the north curb on Bay some 70 feet east of Avebury Avenue. It is owned by James Andrew, 1660 Island Highway.

Two passengers were treated at Royal Jubilee Hospital and released. Mrs. Gladys Walker, 1775 Carrick, suffered injuries to the left wrist and elbow, and Elizabeth Jennings, 3919 Cedar Hill, abrasions to the knees and shoulders.

Both cars were extensively damaged, city police said.

MONTE ROBERTS

A few of the Regulars were having one at the Neighborhood 'tother day, when the subject of Seattle's Century 21 World's Fair came up.

"Hear the prices they're asking for accommodation are scandalous," said the gin-and-tonic.

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale.

"Pr'aps not true," said the beer-off-the-shelf.

"Hope not true," grunted the whisky-and-splash.

"Friend of mine has an aunt, lived in Seattle in the same apartment for 18 years," said the gin-and-tonic.

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale.

"She and everyone else got their notice in January," pursued the gin-and-tonic. "Told to get out so the owners can charge $16 a day for visitors."

"Pr'aps not true," said the beer-off-the-shelf.

"Hope not," grunted the whisky-and-splash.

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale.

"Hope they don't do the same thing here," said the barman.

"Probably will," said the gin-and-tonic, gloomily.

"Worst thing could happen to Victoria," said the barman. "Here we are, just out of good luck, we've had nothing to do with it, here we are with the biggest tourist season we've ever had."

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale.

"All we need do," said the barman, "is keep prices as usual. Restaurants, bars, hotels, motels, sightseeing buses. Everything. Charge same prices as other years, and let everybody know about it."

"Hold the line," agreed the beer-off-the-shelf.

"Faint chance," frowned the gin-and-tonic.

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale.

"People who come here on holiday, on the way to Seattle and on the way back, they'd get a wonderful impression," the barman went on optimistically.

"Maybe they're here for only one, two days this time," said the barman. "But if we give them a decent price and a big smile, and tell them what Vancouver Island has to offer, why, they'll come back again—for a week or two, instead of a day or two."

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale. "All those tourists—place cluttered up with too many people as it is."

'Good Time And Profit' Promised

Victoria can have a good time during its centennial celebrations and still make a profit of $22,414, the John B. Rogers Company predicted in its budgetary estimates.

The report, which paved the way for a decision Friday to hire the company to stage and run various events, shows:

Anticipated revenue of $185,914 and expenses of $163,500, including the $34,300 fee for the company.

The report strongly urges a crash-program to develop the proposed Centennial Square and Park in the Cathedral Hill civic precinct by Aug. 2 when the city's 100th anniversary will be marked.

INCLUDES GRANT

The revenue figure for celebration includes a $75,000 grant from the city and a requested $25,000 provincial grant.

It also calculates that almost $86,000 can be earned even if all ticket sales and revenue gimmicks are only 60 per cent subscribed.

Total potential earnings, with 100 per cent sell-outs, is listed at $143,190, which theoretically could raise net profits to the city by an additional $37,286.

If that happened, city council virtually would get its $25,000 grant back.

Among the money-makers, the company lists a historical pageant with a cast of 700, RCMP Musical Ride, Folk Dance Festival and Logging Sports Show.

Plans to expand Oak Bay's summer playground activities may flourish if more support is not forthcoming from parents.

The playground association called a meeting Feb. 7 and issued 350 invitations but no one showed up so they have scheduled another for Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the municipal hall.

The program is designed for youngsters between 12 and 15, and association vice-president, Mrs. K. C. Murphy, said "if response is poor at this meeting some of the program will have to be dropped."

Victoria Theatre Guild is seeking two actors for male leads in its forthcoming thriller—Agatha Christie's "The Unexpected Guest." Anyone interested in auditioning may get full particulars by phoning EV 6-2850 after 6 p.m.

The play, to be directed by Bruce Banyard, is scheduled for production April 7 to 14.

A prayer-praise-thanksgiving meeting will be conducted Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. in the Newstead Hall, 734 Fort, by the Victoria British Israel Association.

ASK The TIMES

Q. I was married four years ago in a civil ceremony at the Legislative Buildings and my husband and I are wondering if we can "do it all over again" with a minister or justice of the peace. H. G. M.

A. A justice of the peace could do no more than repeat your previous civil ceremony. You did not mention your faith but Christian churches are always anxious to consecrate civil ceremonies and, unless there is some impediment such as a previous divorce, you should have no difficulty in arranging a religious ceremony. If you are an Anglican or United Church member contact a minister, if a Roman Catholic contact a priest at Bishop's House.

Why Dig to No Avail? Try New Handbag Gadgets

By PENNY SAVER

Handbag jammed full? Mine too, most of the time, and among the debris, if I dig long enough I may manage to find some bobby pins, a mirror, small hair brush and, if I'm lucky, a comb.

I sighed with relief and wondered, "why dig?" when I saw a four-in-one comb the other day. Pins fit into the hollow handle, there's a mirror on the back of the brush and a comb that slides out from within the brush. Set is white and brown plastic and it comes in a smart black case with petit point design. You'll like the smart price too, $1.75.

There's a song currently climbing the popular poll called, "She Can't Find Her Keys," that does a good job of lampooning the female and her lack of ability to find anything in her purse.

No need to be cornered like the girl referred to in the song though, because there's something new on the market for us, a key ring that clips to the lining of a purse and is handy at all times. Ring is attached to a retractable cord, and when there are doors to open, merely pull. The price is $1.50 for this gold-colored ring, trimmed with mother of pearl.

Small copies of beautiful masters' originals will take place of honor in your home decorating. They come in two shapes with wooden, gold-leaf frames; round, about four inches in diameter for $1.95 and oval, $2.50. There are small hinges on the back for hanging.

Candles to match napkins will be a conversation piece next time you entertain if you invest in a set I've seen. Old Willow is the pattern on two white 10-inch candles and 24 napkins. This charming set will prove attractive on the table as well as to the pocket book. It's only $1.75.

Took Critical Look at Self— Began Improvement Plan

My mail brings so much human interest, inspiration, friendliness, controversy, poignancy and humor to my desk that it is a never-failing surprise package and adventure. I might become fatigued but never bored when answering the tremendous amount of mail from readers.

Lowman

This week, for a few days, I am giving you a peek into the mail. The letter I am quoting today concerns a woman who had gotten into a rut and lost interest in her appearance, and what she did about it. To me this letter is especially interesting because of the way the writer approached her problem.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"I thought you might be interested in my self-improvement program. Four months ago I took a long look at myself and saw a woman who was fat and gloomy about her hair and grooming, who had let herself go."

"The first thing I did was to start my dieting plan. Next, I started work on my hair. I went to a hairdresser and had it cut and styled and also tinted a beautiful color which matches my skin tone."

"Then I made myself some new outfits. At the time I weighed 196 pounds. The sizes I had to buy in clothes did not look like anything a woman of 35 would wear with pleasure."

"I now weigh 167 and have a long way still to go. I do not expect to be a glamour girl, but I do want to look nice. My family is so proud of what I am doing and my husband sticks closer to me when we go out."

This letter brought to my mind a mistake many women make if they have a lot of weight to lose. Too often they do nothing about hair and clothes until they reach their ideal weight. I think it gives a reducer a big boost in morale and determination to look as attractive as she can while she loses weight.

The first few pounds and inches give a dieter a glimpse of what is ahead, but a new hairdo and clothes that fit and are attractive are encouraging. This reader is lucky because she can make her own clothes. No woman wants to spend much money buying clothes which fit a figure she is trying to lose, but looking as attractive as possible all the way along the reducing road is important.

This letter was sent to me for my Question Box column so I cannot answer the sender personally. Therefore, this is a postscript to her to answer a question: She is 5 feet, 7 inches tall and wants to know how much she should weigh. If she has a medium build, she should weigh about 145

Anthony Bloffa

Anthony Bloffa's salute to spring is this delightfully feminine fashion in which the combination of bias and straight fabric are skillfully shaped into an outstanding style that is especially flattering to the fuller figure. Its sleeved yoke and side sections are cut on the straight grain to contrast with the bias center parts. The skirt's slenderizing front panel is eased with little waist pleats while the smooth back panels widen into a small flare at the hem. For perfect control and wonderful fit, the skirt is darted at the sides. Because it's so easy to make and to wear, you'll find this dress a perfect treasure for any season. To show off the interesting grain treatment, textured fabrics are very effective. Other suggestions are sheer wool, fine tweeds and worsteds, silk or rayon crepe, faille, shantung, raw silk, linen or novelty cottons. Wedding Vows Exchanged

Carroll Harris and Kenneth Mahrbutter were married in a quiet ceremony recently in St. Alban's Church, with Rev. F. W. Hayes officiating.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Harris, 1661 Donnelly Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Hans Mahrbutter of Wauchope, Sask.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white floor-length gown of silk organza, slightly in train, with a V neckline and lily point sleeves.

Her chapel-length veil of illusion net was held in place by a dainty coronet and she carried a bouquet of deep pink roses.

Mrs. Ron Klatt was matron of honor in a short blue dress with white accessories. Her bouquet was of pink carnations.

Best man was Mr. Ron Klatt. Following the ceremony, a dinner party was held for the bridal party at the Princess Mary Restaurant.

The bride chose an aqua-colored knitted suit with black patent accessories and a white carnation corsage for her travelling ensemble.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Help!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: I am frequently asked, "Do you ever have a problem, Abby?" The answer is yes. And right now I have a dandy and am appealing to my readers for a solution.

I have just written a new book. It's all about marriage, why it fails and how to save it. I titled it, "Marriage on the Rocks."

I have just been informed that the title of my book was so good that someone else used it years ago. This was news to me. Furthermore, if I insisted on using my title, I would have to fight it out in court. No, thank you. I decided to change the title (but not without humor) dealing with marriage and "hi infidelity."

So, Dear Readers, wherever you are, if you can think of a fitting title for my new book, formerly "Marriage on the Rocks," please rush it to me.

ABBY (author without a title)

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a fishing bug. During the summer months he fished only on weekends. I didn't mind getting up at 4 a.m. to fix him a hot breakfast and pack him a good lunch. But recently he has taken up night fishing. He tells me blue fish bite better at night, so he takes off in the evening and returns at dawn, all done in, and with a very small catch. The fish he catches at night do not seem as fresh as the fish he caught in the daytime, and they look more like flounders than blue fish. I want to know if blue fish really bite better at night. FISHERMAN'S WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: It doesn't matter when the blue fish bite better if you continue to go for his line. Any man who can pass off a couple of fish market flounders for fresh blue fish should spend his time selling, not fishing.

DEAR ABBY: I met a very nice boy at the skating rink. He goes to a different school, but we started liking each other. He told me he was in the eighth grade, so I told him I was also in the eighth grade, but I am really in the ninth grade. I was afraid if he knew I was in a higher grade he wouldn't like me any more. Now I am afraid somebody might tell him. Should I tell him myself or do you think it would be the end of his liking me?

NINTH GRADER.

DEAR NINTH: Tell him yourself. And fast. And don't ever down-grade yourself again.

CONFIDENTIAL to Miami Mother: If you permit your daughter to "go steady" at 12 and 13 years old, don't wring your hands and moan when she tells you she is old enough to get married at 17 or 18.

Still worrying about the same old problem? Write to Abby for a personal reply. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dicks-Martindale Wedding In Belmont United Church

Exchange of marriage vows took place Friday evening in Belmont United Church between Theresa Lynne Martindale and Leslie Walter Dicks. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Martindale, 1323 Balmoral Road, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Jessie Dicks, 1111 Finlayson Avenue.

Dr. D. B. Sparling officiated at the ceremony.

Arrangements of daffodils, pussy willows and fern decorated the church and guest pews were marked with heather tied with blue and yellow ribbons.

Rino Elverhoy sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Eva Ranson, as organist.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Jim Durrell, the bride wore a beau de soie floor-length gown with lily-point sleeves, scalloped neckline and a silk organza overskirt. A seed pearl headpiece held her chapel-length veil. Single strand of pearls, gift of the groom, was her only jewelry and she carried a white Bible topped with a yellow rose and redoubt streamers.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Rene Reinhardt, bride maids, Sharon Rimer and Pat Martindale, cousin of the bride, and junior bridesmaid, Susan Durrell, another cousin of the bride, wore attractive blue gowns and matching headbands. All three carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Norm Dicks, brother of the groom, was best man, and ushers were Ted Martindale, brother of the bride, and Frazer MacDonald.

Reception after the wedding was held in St. Alban's parish hall which was decorated with pussy willows and fern.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tier cake flanked with white candles, blue and yellow flowers and heather. Dr. Sparling proposed a toast to the bride.

For her travelling ensemble the bride chose a rust colored sheath, moss-green coat and chocolate brown accessories accented with a yellow rose corsage.

The young couple will travel up-Island for their honeymoon.

UNESCO Basis for Mutual Understanding

Work of UNESCO in trying to promote better living standards for underdeveloped countries, was ably presented by Mrs. Margaret Harvey at international banquet of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club in the Empress Hotel on Saturday evening.

Theme of the gathering, shared in the month of February with all BPW clubs around the world, was "Promoting Mutual Respect Among People as a Basis of International Understanding."

As a member of Canada Council, which directs the UNESCO program in Canada for the Department of External Affairs, Mrs. Harvey pointed out that one thing UNESCO is vitally interested in is assisting and helping to educate "that 45 per cent of the adult population of the world that can neither read nor write."

In this number there is two hundred and fifty million children who have no schooling at all.

"We are sending engineers, educational leaders and materials all over the world," the speaker said. "We have student exchanges, exchanges of professors and we send youth leaders into the world."

At present, surveys are being made in Asia, the Middle East and Africa; research on arid lands in 16 countries is being done, "so the people may learn about irrigation and be able to sustain themselves." And more than 350 international are being trained in Canada on UNESCO fellowships.

Mrs. Harvey reminded the gathering that there are 100 member states in UNESCO—the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization—and that each gives financially according to population and income.

The UNESCO budget is $60 million.

"This is only 25 per cent of the budget of the school board in Toronto; less than one-sixth of the budget of the department of education for the province of Ontario."

The speaker, a member of Victoria BPW Club, was introduced by the club's first vice-president, Mrs. Vera Wade, and thanked by Mrs. Florence Barlow.

Seated at the head table with the local president, Miss Ruth Adams, who was chairman of the banquet, were His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Fearkes, Hon. Paris (Reuters)—New silhouettes in Paris this spring indicate a more feminine feeling and body-conscious look but the trends receive as many individual treatments as there are fashion houses.

The spirit is adaptation rather than revolution. Fashions combine the best of past modes with manners which are purely contemporary. They generally develop only the successfully proven themes.

Paris in the 1960s refuses to be bound to one all-inclusive silhouette.

Every designer views women on his own terms, ranging from boyishly simple street suits to vaporous late-day dresses alive with flounces and furbelows.

Even hemlines are the negation of conformity, varying from Dior's knee-cap lengths to the ladylike lengthening endorsed by Chanel.

Evening dresses seem more like fragile nightgowns. Flowing draperies, angel-wing scarves and high-waisted empire silhouettes using numberless yards of chiffon lend the dreamlike quality of a wisp of smoke.

Wren Gillian Maseall, RCN

CAREER GIRL TALKS

Wren Joins Navy to See Canada; Loves to Travel

By JOY POLLARD

Wren Able Supply, Accountant One, (21-year-old, Gillian Frances Maseall) has travelled nearly all her life and she intends to travel in the future.

Born in Gloucester, England, she lived there until she was eight years old.

"We went to France, for an extended holiday," she tells you, "then, after a short return trip to England we were off to live in Southern Rhodesia."

When she returned to England to design a kind of house that would suit the climate and that would stand up against tropical storms and insects.

The family planned to stay in that country for a year, but it stretched to six years before they returned to England.

"I loved Rhodesia," Wren Maseall recalls. "It has a wonderful terrain for my favorite hobby, riding."

When they returned to England she finished what is equivalent to a junior matriculation here, in a private school in Sussex.

Then she worked for over a year caring for children. But "I still had a yearning to travel," she sighs. So "I chose Canada mainly because my parents had been here and because I was terribly curious about this country."

Asked how she happened to join the Canadian Navy, this interesting girl explained: "I knew before I came that I was going to try and join the navy, because I believed that by doing so I might get a chance to see a large part of the country as well as meet a good many Canadian people."

"I wanted to get to know the people, see how they live and find out how they think. I've learned a lot—for just as Canadians think of an Englishman with a bowler hat and an umbrella, I always pictured Canadians as husky lumberjack types with red caps and plaid jackets."

However, she does not plan to remain in the navy, the main reason being she's a little homesick for her family in England.

"When I'm released in September I'm going home for about a year and a half," she says. "I'll take a business course, and work in London."

Then she adds: "I wasn't interested in office work until I joined the navy, now I love it and want to make secretarial work my career."

As soon as she finds the urge to travel getting the better of her she says she'll be off to visit the Scandinavian countries next.

"Then, who knows," she concludes with a far-off look in her eyes.

"All I'm sure of is that when I do settle down for good, it will be somewhere in British Columbia."

WINTER TRAINING FOR YOUNG SOLDIERS ON VANCOUVER ISLAND

Recruits joining Canadian army during winter get special "bonus"—12 of their 19 weeks basic training takes place on Vancouver Island, at Nanaimo, Albert Head, Mary Hill, Heals Range, and Work

Point. In photos above, young soldiers tackle assault course at Albert Head, which is designed with dual purpose—to toughen up the recruits and tone them up physically and mentally, and to give them the basic elements of guerilla warfare. Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry instructors are in charge of courses on Vancouver Island, but recruits from all branches take part.

VANCOUVER ISLAND ROUNDUP

'Mother's Little Helper' Causes $4,000 Home Fire

FINAL TRY ON BOOTH BY MAYOR

Mayor Pete Maffeo of Nanaimo is going to make one last effort to salvage Vancouver Island publicity booth in Seattle's Century 21 world's fair.

The mayor, in Victoria Saturday, said he will call an emergency meeting of reeves and mayors of major up-island centres to see if the remaining $15,000 can be raised to pay for the booth.

COURTENAY — Knowing her mother had to burn the garbage, five-year-old Virginia Unruh played "mother's little helper" Saturday and burned her home.

John Unruh of Black Creek, said his daughter set fire to some garbage which was still in the house. When the walls began to blaze she told her mother.

The newly constructed $14,000 home sustained an estimated $4,000 damage.

A bucket brigade of friends neighbors and strangers contained the fire to the roof and ceiling, while the furniture was removed by others. Many of the volunteers were passers-by.

HE'D RATHER GO TO JAIL

Bus Driver Charged For 'Obvious Damage'

A bill for $660, sent by the highways department to To-fino bus driver Noel Hamlin to cover the cost of repairs to a government grader after it was "borrowed" by Hamlin in November, deals only with "obvious" damage.

There possibly was hidden damage to the engine and transmission which might turn up later, a department spokesman said.

He said the $660 includes work on the blade, damaged blade supports and controls, and a $300 labor charge.

Hamlin was fined $25 at Ucluelet on a charge of stealing the grader. He told the court he had merely "borrowed" the machine to level a stretch of road that was so rough it was "driving me and my passengers crazy."

When he got the bill he said emphatically he would not pay it.

'ROT IN JAIL'

"I'd rather rot in jail than pay a cent," he said. "I didn't damage the grader at all. They are simply getting at me because I made fools of them by doing work that their men are supposed to do."

Here is the highways department version of the incident.

The grader had been operated for two shifts on the day previous to the "borrowing," and at midnight had been parked at the roadside.

Some time after midnight the grader was taken, and driven over a stretch of road that already had been levelled.

"The corner of the blade had been lowered into the road, and it cut a ditch 10 inches deep," the highways department spokesman said.

"That stretch of road had to be graded a second time. When our crew found the machine it was on its side in a ditch, with the throttle set at full open and the transmission in high gear. Both the blade and blade ring were broken."

"The department didn't charge Hamlin for the time the machine was down, for damage to the road, or for hidden damage to the grader."

It is the intention of the department to recover the cost of the damage to the machine, the spokesman said, "and if necessary we will prosecute to achieve this."

ALERT BAY — The volunteer fire department here will undertake a sweeping inspection of homes in this area in search of fire hazards.

The investigation is prompted by the death of five children in a fire last month.

Volunteer firemen will start inspecting homes on March 1. Alert Bay village will be checked first, and the inspection will move to the Nimpkish Indian Reserve March 15.

CHEMAINUS — A Chamber of Commerce brief urging a breakwater for Chemainus harbor is under study at Ottawa, Eric Guest reported on his return from the east.

He told the Chamber the brief was well received and authorities are examining the proposals.

Inquest Waived In Slaying

GANGES — An inquest into the slaying of a Saturna Island man has been dropped by the attorney-general's department.

It had been scheduled for Saturday.

William Money, 23, was found shot through the chest in a bedroom of his home on Jan. 12.

A charge of non-capital murder was laid against his widow, Marian, 21, but was not read to her because she was committed to Essondale mental hospital.

Empress Switch To 'AC' System Costs $800,000

Conversion of the Empress Hotel's electrical system from direct current to alternating current will be spread over a period of five years at a cost of $800,000.

"It will mean rewiring most of the hotel," manager Cyril Chapman said today.

The changeover from self-generated power to B.C. Electric power will start at the end of the year. When the changeover to AC is complete, all guests at the Empress will be able to have television in their rooms.

Already some AC power has been brought into the hotel so that some of the guests can use TV sets and other electrical appliances requiring AC current.

NANAIMO—Need for additional facilities to take care of mentally disturbed children was stressed by Don Bingham, former Nanaimo social worker who is now deputy superintendent of child welfare in B.C.

Speaking at a meeting here, he said only 40 long-term beds are available for disturbed children but there are at least 100 cases in B.C. requiring long terms in hospital.

PLEASURE AFLOAT

'Great New Idea' Comes to Detroit

By DON INGHAM

This week I found out all of a sudden that a great, noble and revolutionary step being taken by the auto industry to reduce air pollution is something the motorboat owners have been doing for years.

Reason I didn't know what was happening was that I had considered all the announcements from Detroit as too technical and never read them.

Finally my boss dumped the following news release on my desk:

"Starting with the production of 1963 models, all passenger car and truck engines will be fitted with a positive crankcase ventilation system, Blank company announces. The system is effective in eliminating from 15 to 40 per cent of the unburned hydrocarbons emitted into the atmosphere.

"An automobile engine, even during the most favorable operating conditions, is unable to completely burn (they split the infinitive, not I) the gasoline hydrocarbons in the combustion process.

"A portion of the unburned hydrocarbons escape along the cylinder walls into the crankcase. Because they would condense into harmful sludge and acid, they are forced through a ventilation tube into the atmosphere. The device to be used by Blank company is a positive crankcase ventilation system which eliminates the open ventilation tube and routes the crankcase air, containing the unburned hydrocarbons, back to the intake manifold for return to the combustion chamber for burning."

Acts as Intake for Fresh Air

In other words, an easy way to get rid of the fumes and stench from your breather pipe is draw part of the intake air for the carburetor from the crankcase. Then instead of fumes being forced out of the 'reather, it will act as an intake for fresh air.

"The first time I ever saw this system used was close to 30 years ago, aboard a little cruiser owned by my good friend, Lionel Kirkham.

His power plant was a small converted car engine, with a dinky updraft carburetor.

When he noticed fumes on board, he simply removed one of the inspection plates over the valve stems—it was an L-head motor—cut a hole in the plate, then had a length of 1½-inch flexible pipe welded over the hole. From there it was a simple matter to make a fitting between pipe and carburetor, and from then on, he said, "there just wasn't a trace of oil smell aboard the boat."

This was a small motor of only 136 cubic inches, and the volume of air it consumed was low. However, I'm told that today the boat owners do much the same wrinkle, and that the partial scavenging of the crankcase is more than adequate to eliminate fumes.

Although Lionel had dreamed up his own idea, I'd venture to say other boat owners had thought of it years ahead of him. It seems to have taken Detroit a long time, to get around to something which has been obvious to the marine fraternity for a good many years.

Health Chief Plans Improved Services

Better co-relating of present health services in the Greater Victoria area are planned, Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer, said in an address recently to the annual meeting of the Victoria and Vancouver Island Multiple Sclerosis Society.

Dr. Whitbread explained that extensive research, in many fields, has failed to reveal the cause of multiple sclerosis. In the meantime, he stressed the need of efficient patient-aid and commended the Victoria society for its excellent program.

Committee reports presented to the meeting showed a total of $4,000 had been spent last year on patient-aid work. This included housekeeper services and care aid, provision of wheel chairs, exercise machines, physiotherapy and other equipment.

Tribute was paid to the generosity of many organizations who have supplied money to the society's patient-aid efforts. The meeting honored the memory of Mrs. Mary Jennings, who passed away on the day of the meeting. Mrs. Jennings, who was afflicted by multiple sclerosis in 1938, was founder of the Victoria Society in 1949.

The society is expanding its coverage of patients in Nanaimo, Port Alberni and other up-island towns.

Officers elected were: President, Mrs. O. H. Lamont; vice-presidents, Mrs. K. Vinden and H. A. Wills; recording secretary, Mrs. W. Duncan; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. Price, and treasurer, Mrs. F. Goodwin. Committee chairmen will be appointed at the executive's meeting on March 7.

Nude Douk Women Watch House Burn

NELSON — Two women stripped off their clothes and sang hymns while a house burned Sunday at Wynndel, 40 miles south-east of here.

RCMP took two Sons of Freedom Doukhobor women into custody and said charges will be laid today.

About $700 damage was done to the interior of the two-room building where Peggy Berekoff lives with her mother Mary. The Berekoffs were in the Nelson area at the time of the fire with John Lebedoff, a former Freedomite leader who is now spiritual leader of a splinter group.

Police said an inflammable liquid was used to start the fire.

Big Tourist Share

KAMLOOPS — British Columbia received nearly 25 per cent of Canada's 1961 tourist industry revenue.

Ron Gadsby, the department's co-ordinator of services, told the district Chamber of Commerce, B.C.'s share of $500,000,000 in tourist revenue was $115,000,000.

Judgment Reserved

KAMLOOPS — Judgment was reserved to March 6 here Saturday after the two-day appeal by Highways Minister Gagliardi against a conviction of driving without due care and attention.

J. S. McGuire, defending the minister, said that newspapers and an over-zealous police constable were responsible for the charge, first being laid.

Mr. Gagliardi was fined $75 and later deprived of his licence to drive for three months after the alleged infraction last Sept. 29.

He said the association has evidence that some landlords have increased rents following the $10-a-month increase in the basic old age pension allowance of $65 a month. About 6,000 members of the OAP are at the mercy of independent landlords, he said.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — Art Carney stirred some vanilla yogurt with a spoon, ate it, and said, "Jackie Gleason and I never had a cross word."

He was lounging in his dressing room at the Biltmore Theatre where, with the help of his reputation as Ed Norton, the sewer worker, he is doing good business as the stage star of the Broadway show "Take Her, She's Mine."

"Lots of people don't believe it, but it's true," he said. "We just hit it off."

It was a timely discussion because Gleason's agents and his have tried to get them together again for one more "Honeymooners" effort as a special, or even as a new series.

They failed to make the merger.

"Bill McCaffrey, speaking for me, wanted certain things, just as Jackie would want certain things," Art sipped some coffee out of an enormous cup. "After all, what else are we working for?"

"But I know Jackie'd do anything for me and I hope he knows he's got the same kind of friend in me."

TOO FUNNY

Carney and Gleason, by coincidence, each have the same problem now—that of being too funny.

"Gleason just doesn't want to stick to doing the funny stuff—he's an actor," Carney said.

"In this show here"—about a father seeing his daughter growing up and away from him—"I could get a laugh with an Ed Norton gesture but I'd be out of character."

"Still, I got to say I love the Norton character. I was in California before the show opened."

An elevator operator mentioned seeing Ed Norton every day.

"Every day! You're kidding!" Carney said.

"Yeah, they run it out here every day," the elevator operator said.

"SECOND BANANA"

"Gleason never called me a stooge. I was the second banana, sometimes I was straight man for him, sometimes he was straight man for me. The fact he didn't like to rehearse much didn't hurt—the spontaneity as there. If anybody fluffed or ad-libbed it was in."

Carney yearns to do a musical. He loves music.

"I play the piano by ear," he mentioned. "I was a dope as a kid. I took a few lessons—but gave it up. I wanted to do all the things fellows wanted to do—girls... girls... girls... girls... girls... girls... Carney has had just the reaction you'd expect to his serious attempts at times to be serious.

"I get letters from people saying, 'Dear Mr. Carney: Why do you waste your time doing comedy when you're such a fine dramatic actor?'"

"And it's very nice until I read the next letter which says, 'I saw your dramatic show. Why the hell don't you stick to comedy?'"

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Oscar Homolka complains that his wife is always rearranging things. For instance, his new foreign sports car now has the motor in front.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: There's one doctor's wife who is so jealous that she learned Latin so she could read his prescriptions.

Shelley Greene, doing a Dean Martin impression at Basin St. East, gulps a drink of Scotch, staggers a bit, and says: "This guy doesn't even know Jerry Lewis isn't there any more." That's earl, brother.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

If there's something you want to know? Do you want to win a lot of valuable money or other desirable prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Peter Reuter, 12, of Houston, Tex., for his question:

Can Air Be Boiled?
We are all wondering if life is possible on the frozen outer planets. Well, a visitor from a hotter planet than ours might well wonder how we managed to exist in a world where the ground is frozen solid, even on the hottest day of the year. He might shudder at the idea of our oceans, chilled to the liquid state of water. The solid, liquid and gaseous states of the things around us depend upon temperature and temperature covers a wide range. The coldest temperature in the universe is absolute zero, which is minus 273.2 degrees Centigrade. At this point, every substance loses all its heat and can get no colder. Heat is the energy which keeps the atoms and molecules of a substance in motion. At absolute zero, all this energy is gone and the atoms and molecules are still.

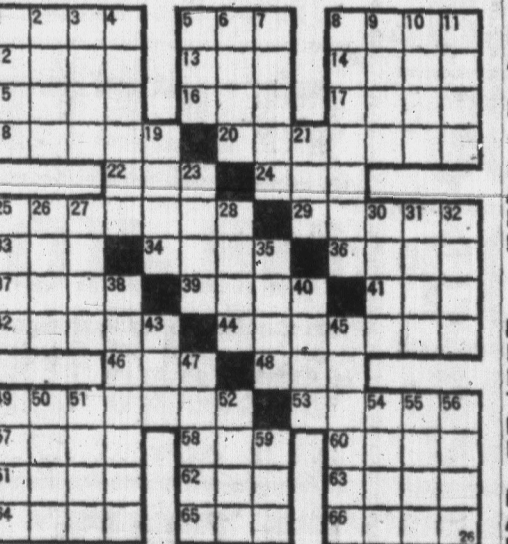

On earth, we never reach ab-

Melting, Freezing Points Same

The melting point of a substance is the same as its freezing point. At 0 degrees, solid ice melts into liquid water. If we add more heat, a liquid substance reaches its boiling point and becomes a gas. Boiling water turns to gaseous vapor and its molecules fly off separately into the air. Copper boils and becomes gas at 2300 degrees, iron reaches boiling point at 3000 degrees.

Oxygen and nitrogen, the chief gases of the air, reach their boiling points far below normal temperatures. Oxygen boils into its gaseous form at minus 183 centigrade degrees and nitrogen at minus 195 degrees. Carbon dioxide, neon and the other rare gases of the atmosphere also boil far below normal temperatures. We cannot boil the air because it is already boiling.

HICKMAN ASKS IDEAS ON TYPE OF COLLEGE

Students and faculty of Victoria College were invited Saturday by principal Dr. W. H. Hickman to give serious thought to the kind of institution that Victoria College should become.

Dr. Hickman, who had risen at the luncheon meeting of the college's second annual academic symposium to thank speaker Dean Neil Perry of the University of British Columbia, said he hoped those in attendance would give thought, singly and in groups, as to "just what kind of institution we should have in Victoria."

About 80 students, faculty and guests had gathered at the college's Gordon Head campus for addresses, panel discussions and group discussions around the topic "The Student and the University."

Earlier in the morning, Dr. John Peter of the college's English department described British Columbia as having a "highway-building economy," and the highways are very black and smooth, but I would rather bump over a few more roads and see more money spent on education."

Breath of Spring Blows Up a Storm

By AUDREY JOHNSON

"Breath of Spring" by Peter Coke, directed by Allan Purdy, is a farce, its absurdities frequently, rocked the capacity audience with what is known to the trade as "belly laughs."

FLAIR FOR FARCE

A competent cast with a flair for farce and, in Allan M. Purdy, a director with a clear understanding of its demands, were chief factors in the success of this production. Pace, that most important ingredient, and the one most often neglected among amateurs at all levels, was brisk and vigorous on this opening night.

Close Circuit TV Advocated For Schools

MONTREAL (CP)—The Bell Telephone Company of Canada urged today that closed-circuit television be used for the transmission of education programs.

In a brief to the Quebec royal commission on education, the company said closed-circuit television by cable is more suitable to the needs of schools and universities and more economical than broadcasts by a commercial or specialized station.

Such a system can carry any number of lectures or lessons simultaneously whereas a television station broadcasts only one program at a time, said the company's brief. It is relatively easy to add channels to the system or extend it to new outlets.

REPEAT SHOW TONIGHT

Brilliant Effort On Harpsichord

By AUDREY JOHNSON

The current pair of Victoria Symphony Orchestra concerts offers a more than usually satisfying two hours to genuine music lovers and especially to those with a passion for 18th century music.

Works of Bach and Haydn make up the program with Victoria-born Malcolm Hamilton featured as harpsichord soloist.

Mr. Hamilton, now studying for his musical doctorate at the University of Washington, was revealed as a most brilliant and secure artist. Performing Bach's Harpsichord Concerto in G minor and Haydn's in D major, his interpretation explored all aspects of the limited but charming instrument.

Under his fluent fingers and vitalized by his splendid rhythmic sense, effect of the entire performance was authoritative, buoyant, graceful, at times delicate as Dresden China filigree.

BALANCED FOIL

Orchestral accompaniment was scaled to perfection by conductor Hans Gruber to provide a beautifully balanced foil for the old-world instrument.

Despite some lack of "togetherness" at moments, Haydn's "Clock" Symphony (No. 101), was generally satisfactory and rose to something more than that in the finale.

But the orchestra's tour de force came with the performance of "The Wise Virgins," Walton's arrangement in ballet suite form, of several of Bach's chorales and arias.

SINCERITY OF MOOD

The suite was performed with brilliant attack and inspiring verve when required and with a lovely cantabile and sensitive shaping of phrase that evoked serenity of mood in its quiet movements.

Assistant concertmaster Julia Hunt, playing at first desk due to the last-minute illness of the concertmaster, performed the solo passages in "Sheep May Safely Graze" with exquisite effectiveness.

The concert will be repeated tonight at the Royal Theatre at 8:30.

Canada in 1960 had 53 cases of diphtheria with seven deaths, compared with 9,057 cases and 1,281 deaths in 1924.

College Proposed For Prince George

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — a report on the college and charged the city has lost too many of its top young people because it is without higher education facilities.

The college would be built on a 2,000-acre site eight miles west of here. So far more than $70,000 has been invested. First stages of development are expected to cost at least $2,000,000.

Rev. Rogers said religion should play no part in the college despite it being built by the Roman Catholic Church.

Courses offered should mesh with the University of British Columbia curriculum so students from the college can fit into the university without any problems.

The clergyman said the college would relieve crowding at the University of B.C. and open the doors of higher education for many young people of northern and central B.C.

Eventually it is hoped the college will become a full-fledged university.

T.V. with Lee

Gratien Gelinas Stars in Own Play for Festival at 9.30 on 6, 2

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

I HOPE all those waiting tickets for CBC's live production of "Live a Borrowed Life" Saturday night at Oak Bay Junior High School have learned through CHEK-TV blurb that you get your tickets through them.

What's more, I hope you have them as I understand there is none left.

On January 18 this column announced that the live production would be held March 3 and wound up with: "When I learn more as to where and when you may secure tickets for Live a Borrowed Life I will pass the information on to you via this column."

Of course I never did and, therefore, my personal apologies to any I may have let down.

Fact of the matter is, I tried.

The first thing I knew of the Victoria show was through a CBUT blurb on the air. This led me to phone Vancouver and the result was the January 18 column.

About three weeks ago—spurred on by many anxious callers—I called CBUT again and was told that they didn't know how the tickets were to be handed out but would let me know as soon as they knew.

SOON, nothing daunted, I phoned Vancouver again Friday morning to be told that tickets had been handed over to CHEK-TV for dispersal and they understood they had all been handed out.

I phoned CHEK and those concerned seemed sincerely sorry that they had forgotten to inform me. I suppose I am just as much to blame for not having heard CHEK's blurb. My sincere regrets to any and all who have been disappointed.

The above is not to be construed as an alibi on my part. I have written it for the record only—the proverbial voice in the wilderness.

Quebec Labor Asks More Gov't Action

QUEBEC (CP)—The Quebec Federation of Labor (CLC) today demanded more intervention by the Quebec government in the economic and social affairs of the province.

The CLC, in its annual brief to the government, called for a complete health insurance plan, a state-run automobile insurance plan, assurance of government control of the proposed steel industry complex, nationalization of the hydroelectric industry, limitations on land speculation, and planning of the economy to eliminate unemployment.

The brief urged the government, however, to relax controls on civil servants. They should be allowed the right to organize unions, affiliate with a central labor organization, bargain collectively for their wages and working conditions, and strike if necessary.

It also asked for an inquiry into Quebec's fiscal and taxation policies to insure that taxes are imposed in such a

Recovery Slowdown U.S. Worry

NEW YORK (AP) — Doubts about the strength of the U.S. business recovery, cropped up last week.

Some statistics showed the January economic pace fell off from December.

This came as a disappointment. There had been general confidence that the economy was headed up.

Business failures, totalling 1,447, were the highest for any January since 1939.

Housing starts declined for the third consecutive month. Private housing starts were estimated at an annual rate of 1,292,000 units, down one per cent from December.

Declines were reported earlier in factory production, personal incomes and retail sales.

The Kennedy administration was inclined to blame bad weather for much of the low-down and indicated confidence that its goal of a gross national product of $370,000,000,000 — up from $321,300,000,000 in 1961 — would be attained.

There were some bright spots. Orders received by durable goods manufacturers in January rose to a record $16,900,000,000.

Most major industries, except steel, contributed to the increase flow of new orders in January. The commerce department said: "Steel orders remained at the very high December rate."

A survey by the federal reserve board indicated consumers in January had a strong desire to buy new cars in the next six months. This was reflected in the first third of February, when dealers sold 154,735 new U.S.-made cars, compared with 118,685 in the comparable week of 1961.

Automobile production held steady this week at an estimated 135,000 cars. Output last week was 135,220.

Negotiations to reach an early contract in the steel industry continued at a stepped-up pace. Reports circulated that the producers and the United Steel workers were on the verge of agreement. But negotiators said "such widespread optimism is somewhat premature in the light of the fact."

Night Course In Labor Law

A course in labor law for people involved in personnel management either as specialists or on a part-time basis will be given at Victoria College for six weeks from March 12.

The course will deal with such acts affecting labor as the Minimum Wage Act, Hours of Work Act, Workers' Compensation Act, Unemployment Insurance Act, Trade Unions Act, and Labor Relations Act.

Instructors in the course will be J. P. Berry, chief solicitor, labor department, Workman's Compensation Board in Vancouver; R. E. Lanning, supervisor in the insurance branch of the Unemployment Insurance Commission in Vancouver; and C. R. Margison, assistant deputy minister of labor.

The course is being given this year for the first time in Victoria by the Evening Division of Victoria College. Professor R. T. D. Wallace, evening division director said that the course proved very successful at UBC where it was presented for the first time last year.

"These lectures should prove of great interest to those who are involved in a contractual relationship between employer and employee," he said.

The classes will meet in Room 4 of the Paul Building at the campus at 8 p.m. on Mondays from March 12 to April 16 inclusive.

Registration may be made with the office of business administration of the UBC extension department in Vancouver or through the college's evening division.

Cost of the course is $18.

DOWN TO THE SEA IN HELICOPTERS—The U.S. Coast Guard has selected the S-62 helicopter as its new search and rescue aircraft. The boat-hulled, turbine-powered vehicle, built by Sikorsky, is the world's first amphibious helicopter. In photograph above, a crew chief stands on a platform which extends out over the water to snag a life raft with his hook and pull the survivor in. With the helicopter able to land on the water, the rescue is five times as fast as old method of hauling survivor into the air by a hoist.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Good Operating Profit Reported by Craigmont

By GORDON BELL

Times Business Editor

The report on the first three months' operation of Craigmont Mines Ltd., issued by president J. D. Simpson, indicates things are going as well as could be hoped for at the giant copper operation.

Estimated operating profit for the first quarter ended Jan. 31, was $2,552,976, achieved while operating on relatively low grade mill feed.

Craigmont, near Merritt, mined 400,144 tons of ore during the quarter—operating on only 1.43 per cent feed for the first six weeks, averaging out to 1.72 per cent over the full period and produced 29,712 tons of concentrates averaging 29.29 per cent copper. Recovery rate from the concentrates was 96.77 per cent.

The operating profit figure does not take into consideration depreciation or depletion, and of course was not liable to income tax, and it makes interesting speculation as to what the profit will be when the mining operation gets deeper into the richer ore.

HUGE RESERVES

At the present time Craigmont estimates it has reserves of 22.5 million tons averaging 2.08 per cent copper, along with 49.6 per cent iron.

Imperial Chemical Profits Show Drop

LONDON (Reuters)—Imperial Chemical Industries has announced a 25 per cent drop in profits during 1961.

Profits last year £61,800,000 compared with £88,000,000 in 1960.

ICI is locked in a fierce takeover battle for Courtaulds, the world's biggest man-made fibre group.

ICI sales to customers at home and abroad fell by £7,000,000 to £31,000,000.

FIRST CASE HEARD IN NEW COURTHOUSE

'I Hate to Be Disagreeable Today, But ...'

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Victoria's new $2,000,000 courthouse began its legal history today at 10:30 when Judge J. B. Clearihue—a native son—welcomed counsel and witnesses to the first case to be heard there.

"We are proud to be the first to hold court in this magnificent new building," said the judge as he took his seat on the bench of the blue-carpeted County Court on the second floor.

He addressed a special welcome to city lawyer George Gregory, another native son, who as former MLA for Victoria campaigned in the legislature for a new courthouse, and Miss Elouise Harrison of Crofton.

DAMAGE SUIT
Both appeared as rival counsel in a dispute over damages following a two-car collision near Chemainus on Jan. 25, 1961.

Judge Clearihue noted that Mr. Gregory, Miss Harrison and himself were all descendants of Victoria's pioneer citizens.

"It is fitting perhaps that we should open proceedings in a new phase of Victoria's legal history."

Judge Clearihue, who was born here in 1887, extended congratulations to Public Works Minister W. N. Chant and his staff on "the fine job they have done."

"We have had three law court buildings in this city and the last two are filled with memories of the last century."

"I confess I was somewhat loath to leave the old building on Bastion Square ... but I am sure this new courthouse will have a future as illustrious as the past."

LIGHT-HEARTED
Proceedings in County Court began in a light-hearted atmosphere. Soon after Miss Harrison had opened her case for the plaintiff (John Kulak of Chemainus), Mr. Gregory rose on a point of law, adding:

"I hate to be disagreeable on this first day in our new home, but ..."

A while later, Judge Clearihue remarked that he needed "another cushion" as he could not see clearly over the top of his high desk.

"I think there are one or two bugs we have to get out of this new building," he said.

Camera Kit, Guns Stolen From House

A camera kit valued at $440 and two guns were stolen from a Victoria man Saturday evening.

S. R. Madsen, 825 Foul Bay Road, lost the articles from his room sometime after 8:30 p.m.

Mr. Madsen called police early Sunday morning when he discovered the theft.

He described the following as stolen: a 35 mm. camera valued at $350, a light meter valued at $40, a tan leather camera kit containing film and filter equipment valued at $50.

The two guns the thief made off with were a 30-30 Winchester rifle and a .22 Ruger revolver.

Entrance was believed gained through a basement window.

TRAFFIC FINES

In city police court today: Paul-Apro, 3516 Calumet, running red light, $15 and license suspended.

Donald Rolph, 841 Esquimalt Road, careless driving, $40 and license suspended.

Jack Heanski, 1377 Hillside, careless driving, $35.

Volker Stoldt, 1681 Freeman, over 30 mph, $15, driving license restriction $15.

Robert Urquhart, HMCS Fraser, no driver's licence, $15.

Parking Ease-Up Requested For Soccer Fans

Two-hour parking restrictions on streets in the Royal Athletic Park area were criticized today by Ald. J. L. W. McLean.

He said the restrictions, on Caledonia and North Park Streets, should be lifted on Saturdays so that football enthusiasts would not be harassed by police.

"Several people have complained to me that they have been given parking tickets by police while watching afternoon football games," he said.

"I don't think traffic conditions on Saturdays require these restrictions."

He said he would take the matter up with the city engineer's department to see if the restrictions could be removed, at least for weekends.

of this new building," answered Mr. Gregory. "The other day, Your Honor, I took the liberty of sitting in your chair and I could hardly see the witness stand."

"But then you are not as tall as I am," smiled Judge Clearihue.

Before the court opened, Miss Harrison remarked that the new courtroom, with its panelled walls, purple-backed chairs and muted-blue carpet, were in good taste "from the woman's point of view."

Half an hour after the county court went into session, divorce proceedings were begun in the Supreme Court next door.

But Mr. Justice T. W. Brown from Vancouver, made no remark when the court opened.

Outside the courtrooms, there was some confusion as lawyers, witnesses and persons seeking legal information wandered round the corridors looking for the appropriate courts and offices.

One visitor complained of being "stuck" in an elevator which would not move off the first floor for several minutes; and some lawyers had difficulty finding their robing room.

Files, books and packing cases were strewn over the floor of the court registry on the first floor as members of the staff sorted themselves out in their new quarters.

But the corridors were filled with bright sunshine, and many enjoyed the fine view of the Olympic Mountains.

8-Month Term For Driving While Impaired

A Victoria motorist was given eight months in jail and had his licence suspended for three years by Magistrate William Ostler in city police court today.

John Alexander Sweezy, 1124 McKenzie Street, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and driving while his licence was under suspension.

It was his third conviction on the same charges within two years.

Court was told Sweezy drove his car over the curb at Johnson and Douglas Streets and was caught later on Yates Street.

"BLACKED OUT"
He told the magistrate he had no recollection of the incident, saying he was "blacked out" at the time.

"I have a job lined up beginning March 28, and I would ask this be taken into consideration," Sweezy said.

Magistrate Ostler told him a jail sentence is mandatory for the third offence and he wouldn't consider the appeal in any case.

"Under these circumstances jail is the only sentence," he said.

Sweezy received four months not concurrent on each of the two charges.

BULBMEN CHEER CHILL

Overnight temperatures as low as 12 degrees chilled Victorians but warmed the hearts of bulb growers.

Weatherman William Macle said the official low at Gonzales was 26 degrees but readings ranged from 15 in-land to 26 near the sea.

A ground-level temperature of 12 degrees was recorded at Mattick's Farm, 5325 Cordova Bay Road.

Local bulb growers were elated. If the chill continues, daffodil and tulip growth will be retarded so they will bloom at Easter which is late this year.

"This weather is just ideal," said G. A. Vanfreight, 4437 Tyndall, "I could stand about two weeks of it."

The low of 26 ties the record for Feb. 26 which was set in 1955. Lowest February temperature recorded in Greater Victoria was 9.2 degrees on Feb. 7, 1946.

The current cold snap is expected to continue through Tuesday with similar low readings overnight and a high of about 40 degrees Tuesday.

Cold Night Out For Adventurers

Two Campbell River boys, missing since Sunday, today were plucked from treacherous Georgia Strait waters in an air-sea rescue operation 15 miles south of Quadra Island.

Douglas and James Scoones, eight and nine respectively, who spent the night in a row boat appeared none the worse for their experience.

The brothers were spotted in a nine-foot fiberglass boat by two RCAF air-sea rescue aircraft and a B.C. Airlines plane at about 11:30 a.m.

BECALMED
The boat was becalmed three miles south of Mittenatch Island, south of Cape Mudge on Quadra Island.

While RCAF planes dropped smoke markers to pinpoint the boat, Gordon Wilkinson, B.C. Airlines pilot, swooped down and landed on the water.

He took the boys aboard, leaving the boat to be picked up by an RCMP launch.

"BIT COLD"
Despite the fact they were only light clothing, the boys appeared to have suffered no ill effects from their night out in an open boat.

Mr. Scoones, an employee of Catermole Logging Co., said they complained of being a "bit cold."

"But apparently they were not afraid," he said. "At least they did not seem to be."

The boys became the object of a search when they failed to return home Sunday afternoon after leaving to play in the park.

The boys, without consulting their mother, decided instead

MLAs Hear Both Barrels In Trading Stamp Furore

The trading stamp war flared before the legislature today when three groups—two opposed and one in favor—presented briefs to a special committee.

Their arguments revolved chiefly around the effect of stamps on the price of groceries.

The Retail Merchants' Association and the Consumers' Association of Canada both maintained the cost to customers was increased 2 per cent to customers.

The RMA said if all stores had stamps this would put B.C.'s annual food bill up $8,000,000.

Super Valu Stores Ltd., one of three now offering stamps, said the initial cost of stamps to the merchant was 2 per cent of his sales, but that the overall cost to the customer had been found to be only 6 per cent.

He admitted that customers are not "getting something for nothing" but said that on a $10 grocery order, a customer pays 6 cents for stamps and receives 20 cents worth of premium in return.

The consumers' association brief was presented by provincial president Mrs. A. W. McGhie of Vancouver.

"PARASITICAL"
She said it was supported by the provincial League of Women and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

She said stamps "are purely parasitical."

"They vastly increase the soaring expenses of doing business, delay at checkout desks, cost of storage, printing and filling of order of premiums, extra bookkeeping—all these added costs come out of our pockets."

The brief called for permanent abolition of stamps and similar plans in B.C.

A friend of the dead boy, Murray Coombes, 41 Tovey Crescent, had apparently come over to play about 1:30 p.m. and the pair had gone down to the basement.

"He went to the sawdust bin to put some in the furnace," said Murray.

"CHOKING"
"I heard some noises and went after him. He was lying on the floor, partly covered with sawdust, and choking. His mouth was full of sawdust and I got him to spit it out."

"I helped him upstairs to his bedroom and made him lie down. In a minute I helped him to the bathroom to see if he could throw up what was choking him, then back to his room."

"Then I got his father's phone number at work and called him, and he came over the road to get Mr. Cleghorn (Kenneth Cleghorn, 550 View Royal)."

"He came over, then called a doctor from nearby and an ambulance, and they took Donovan away."

BOY SCOUT
The dead boy was a Boy Scout in the View Royal troop, a member of the YMCA and a student at Esquimalt Junior High.

He is survived by the parents: two brothers, Barry Harold and Robin Harvey and a maternal grandmother, Mr. Neff is president of Saanich Lumber Yards Ltd., 3041 Douglas.

Funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in McCall Bros. funeral chapel, followed by interment in Royal Oak Cemetery.

Tenant Returns, Thief Takes Off
A burglar ran from an apartment Sunday when the occupant returned, while he was searching the premises.

Mrs. L. B. Heath, 3731 Cook, told police she entered her flat just after 12 noon and saw a man fleeing through the rear door.

She described him as 5 feet 10 inches tall and well dressed in a dark blue suit.

He had apparently entered the building by climbing up a fire escape and climbing through an open window.

Mrs. Heath said nothing was stolen.

Restoration Plan Studied For City Fathers' Graves

Ross Bay Cemetery committee may undertake a centennial project of its own.

Total of 141 former city councillors, including 28 mayors, have been buried in the cemetery since its opening almost 100 years ago.

An investigation recently was launched by committee chairman Ald. A. W. Toone to find out if any of the grave-stones need repair or refurbishing.

If there is a need and the program proves feasible, the committee is expected to order the work as a special centennial project included in its continuing efforts to improve the cemetery's appearance.

MONTE ROBERTS

A few of the Regulars were having one at the Neighborhood 'tother day, when the subject of Seattle's Century 21 World's Fair came up.

"Hear the prices they're asking for accommodation are scandalous," said the gin-and-tonic.

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale. "Pr'aps not true," said the beer-off-the-shelf.

"Hope not," grunted the whisky-and-splash. "Friend of mine has an aunt, lived in Seattle in the same apartment for 18 years," said the gin-and-tonic.

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale. "She and everyone else got their notice in January," pursued the gin-and-tonic. "Told to get out so the owners can charge $16 a day for visitors."

"Pr'aps not true," said the beer-off-the-shelf. "Hope not," grunted the whisky-and-splash.

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale. "Hope they don't do the same thing here," said the barman.

"Probably will," said the gin-and-tonic, gloomily. "Worst thing could happen to Victoria," said the barman. "Here we are, just out of good luck, we've had nothing to do with it, here we are with the biggest tourist season we've ever had."

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale. "All we need do," said the barman, "is keep prices as usual. Restaurants, bars, hotels, motels, sightseeing buses. Everything. Charge same prices as other years, and let everybody know about it."

"Hold the line," agreed the beer-off-the-shelf. "Faint chance," frowned the gin-and-tonic.

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale. "People who come here accidentally, on the way to Seattle and on the way back, they'd get a wonderful impression," the barman went on optimistically.

"Maybe they're here for only one, two days this time," said the barman. "But if we give them a decent price and a big smile, and tell them what Vancouver Island has to offer, why, they'll come back again—for a week or two, instead of a day or two."

"Beastly shame," said the pale ale. "All those tourists—place cluttered up with too many people as it is."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A sewing machine valued at $60 was reported stolen from a parked car Saturday evening.

H. Mather, 924 Collinson, told police the machine, in a brown and white carrying case, was removed from the trunk of his automobile while it was outside 1752 Adanac.

Harold Ker, 1119 Fort Street, has been named secretary of the 1962 Golden Gavel speakers' contest.

Entrants may reach him at EV 2-3425. Preliminary rounds will be held in the City Hall council chambers March 12, 14, 16 and 18 at 8:00 p.m.

Speeches must be more than five minutes in length and less than seven and may be on any subject except religion or politics.

ASK THE TIMES

Q: I was married four years ago in a civil ceremony at the Legislative Buildings and my husband and I are wondering if we can "do it all over again" with a minister or justice of the peace. H. G. M.

A: A justice of the peace could do no more than repeat your previous civil ceremony. You did not mention your faith but Christian churches are always anxious to consecrate civil ceremonies and, unless there is some impediment such as a previous divorce, you should have no difficulty in arranging a religious ceremony. If you are an Anglican or United Church member contact a minister. If a Roman Catholic contact a priest at Bishop's House.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve problems or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on lost coins, stamps or pictures. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Victoria region Boy Scouts plan to hit the beaches again this year to clear them of broken glass.

City council today was asked for assistance and approval for the May 5 project. Last year several hundred cubs and scouts cleared truckloads of glass from all major beaches.

The operation is described as the "annual service good turn" from the movement to the community.

Winners of the weekly tournament conducted by the Victoria unit, American contract bridge league were: Hildegarde Rundquist and Elizabeth Seddon.

Tied for second were the three teams of Eric Goodwin and Bud Waddington, Jo Waddington and Phil Hagel, and Eric Horwood and Walt Allen.

A prayer and healing study meeting will be held Wednesday at the Cathedral Memorial Hall. There will be no meeting March 14.

The school orchestra will entertain at a PTA meeting to be held Tuesday, at 8 p.m. in the Oak Bay Junior High School.

Someone using an air gun broke windows in 10 cars in the Esquimalt area Saturday night.

Police said only parked cars were hit. In each case the window was on the curb side of the car.

AFTER ARMS TALKS

Kennedy Sees Summit Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has told Soviet Premier Khrushchev he hopes developments at the forthcoming Geneva disarmament conference may lead to a summit meeting by June 1.

At the same time the United States and its Western allies are reported to be considering short-range disarmament proposals which they hope Russia may accept quickly at Geneva, thus providing a basis for a summit meeting in May.

Among these is a proposal to ban the transfer of nuclear weapons to other countries.

Kennedy's views were expressed to Khrushchev during the weekend in a 1,000-word note rejecting Khrushchev's second proposal that the heads of the 18 nations involved—Canada included—attend the opening of the Geneva talks March 14.

Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain also rejected the Soviet premier's summit bid.

Kennedy, who wants the talks opened at the foreign ministers' level, told Khrushchev that to have a heads-of-government meeting at the beginning of the conference "would be to begin with the wrong end of the problem."

Kennedy expressed his hope that "developments in the conference and internationally would make it useful to arrange for personal participation of the heads of government before June 1."

In London, British officials said Macmillan's reply, like Kennedy's, repeated the view Continued on Page 7

Innocent Moslems Gunned

(Times News Services) — ALGIERS — European secret army guerrillas were shooting down innocent Moslems at random today.

At least 10 Moslems were killed within a few hours as the right-wing extremists pressed their cold-blooded terrorist drive to sabotage Algerian peace plans.

Six Arabs were shot dead in the Rue Michelot, a main Algiers street. Another four were killed by a hail of gunfire from a car speeding down the neighboring Rue Messenier.

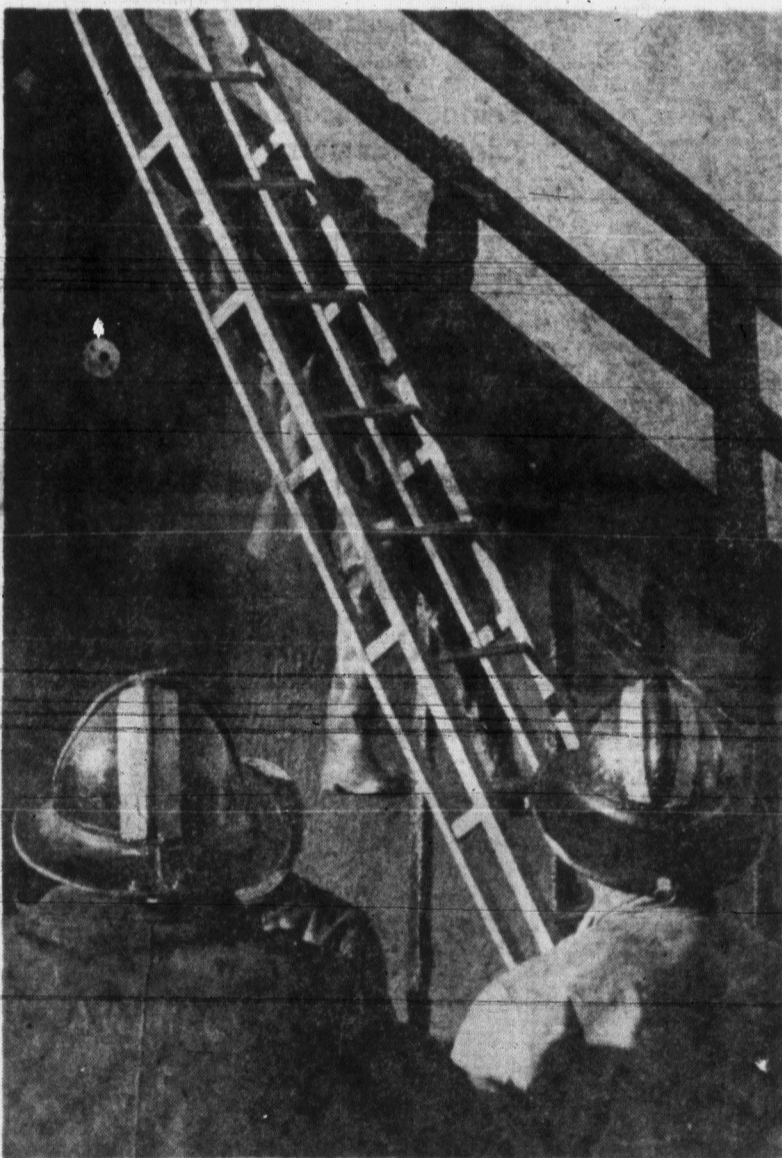

Riot troops with armored cars rolled down the Rue Michelot while police sealed off the area.

Smoke Damage

Officials of clothing firm of George Straith Ltd. were in conference today to assess the results of a disastrous fire in their Government Street premises Sunday morning.

The blaze was confined to a comparatively small office area on the mezzanine floor but smoke, heat and water caused many thousands of dollars worth of damage to valuable stock throughout the building.

One estimate placed the damage at in excess of $100,000 but at press time this was still unconfirmed.

FOUR TRUCKS

The alarm was raised just before 8 a.m. Sunday by Ted Mathews, operator of the Palace Newsstand directly opposite the clothing store at 921 Government.

He saw smoke through the windows as he arrived to open his stand and immediately notified the fire department.

City firemen rushed four trucks to the scene.

They determined the blaze was hottest on the Broughton Street side of the building and placed ladders there. They had the flames under control in little more than half an hour.

However, it was four hours before they managed to extinguish all the small pockets of flames, and clear away smoldering clothes and debris.

Shortly after arrival, firemen found they were hampered by icy streets and the city engineering department was called in to sprinkle salt on the slippery surfaces.

FIREMAN OVERCOME

Fireman Bert Wilkinson, a former Golden Gloves champion and well known in Victoria boxing circles, was overcome by fumes during the height of the fire and taken by city police to St. Joseph's Hospital.

He was given oxygen treatment and allowed to go home. He is reported to be making a good recovery today.

SECOND BLAZE

At 9 a.m. firemen were called to another house fire at 406 Simcoe Street.

To cope with this, four men and a truck were sent from the scene of the fire at Straith's and the No. 3 truck at Burnside was also dispatched. The James Bay fire truck was already actively engaged at the clothing store.

The second fire centred around a wooden fire escape outside the home of John Hamilton. It damaged the steps, the landing above and an exit door.

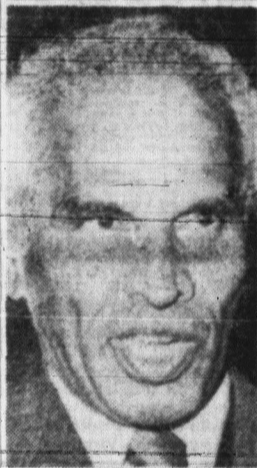

Here again a fireman found himself in danger.

One firefighter descended the wooden fire escape quite safely and was followed by fireman Alf Adamson. But as the latter was half-way down the stairs gave way under him and he fell to the ground.

Fireman Adamson escaped with a shaking up.

Cause of this fire was unknown.

Times News Services

NEW DELHI — Defence Minister V. K. Krishna Menon took a big lead today in unofficial returns in the Indian parliamentary race that put Prime Minister Nehru's prestige at stake.

Menon had 39,728 votes to 16,424 for J. B. Kripalani, a disciple of Gandhi. Kripalani is backed by a coalition that charged Nehru's left-leaning foreign policy with being pro-Communist.

Although Nehru's party took 322 of the first 460 state assembly seats decided, this was a slight drop from the 1957 elections. And the Congress party, although favored to win control of most and perhaps all of the state legislatures, had lost 45 seats it formerly held and picked up only 29 new ones.

There are 2,930 state legislature seats in all.

The unanimous decision strikes down efforts in some southern states — efforts involved in the long controversy over freedom riders — to maintain racial segregation in within-the-state travel despite federal action against segregation on interstate facilities.

GLENN TELLS CONGRESS

'Brilliant Future Ahead in Space'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. said today United States strides in space point to a brilliant future.

Brought here by President Kennedy to accept the country's homage, the first American to orbit the earth gave a joint meeting of the Senate and House of Representatives a picture of what can lie ahead.

"We are just probing the surface of the greatest advancements of man's knowledge of his surroundings that have ever been made," Glenn said.

The senators and representatives received him tumultuously, cheering as had thousands of rain-soaked citizens who lined Pennsylvania Avenue to watch Glenn parade from the White House to the Capitol.

There were two standing ovations before Glenn even got into his prepared speech. Members of his family looked on from the galleries. He waved to his wife, Annie.

Speaker John W. McCormack, Dem.—Mass., introduced the 40-year-old marine lieutenant-colonel as a "brave and courageous American."

Glenn paid tribute to the thousands who had a part in the achievement. He thanked Congress for setting up the national program of space exploration.

He also made a point of calling attention to the different approaches used by the Russians and Americans working to uncover the mysteries of space. Noting that the American orbital shot was conducted openly before representatives of countries around the world and full news coverage, Glenn said:

"This is certainly in sharp contrast with similar programs conducted elsewhere in the world and elevates the peaceful intent of our program."

Crowds estimated at between 200,000 and 300,000 watched the procession in which Glenn moved from the White House to the Capitol.

PERILS OF THE JOB

Straith Ltd. clothing store on Government, to attend a fire at the home of John Hamilton. The stairs gave way as he descended, throwing him to the ground. He escaped with a shaking up.—(Ryan Bros. Photo.)

Fleming's Life Threatened
By Burglar at Ottawa Home

OTTAWA (CP) — A burglar threatened to kill Finance Minister Fleming Sunday night.

The minister said today the incident occurred after he and Mrs. Fleming were driven home from Uplands Airport by an army driver, L. Cpl. J. B. D. McCormick.

"We discovered two burglars in the house," Mr. Fleming said. "They rifled four bedrooms. One threatened to kill us."

The minister and his driver confronted the two men upstairs. "One of them had a long flashlight. He threatened several times to hit us with it."

The two burglars followed Mr. Fleming and L. Cpl. McCormick to the foot of the stairs.

"The other one came back and kicked him. The two of them kicked him and ran off." Meanwhile, Mr. Fleming called police. They searched the fashionable neighborhood without results. The RCMP was called in today to investigate.

The minister said some articles were stolen but would not elaborate.

Mr. Fleming paid tribute to L. Cpl. McCormick.

"He is a very brave man. It was a very courageous thing he did."

Mrs. Fleming was not involved in the scuffle.

EXTREMES

Mister Khrushchev used the U2 pilot to kill a summit meeting. Now he's used him to promote one.

The gist of that centennial firm's advice seems to be: "Come on, Victoria, get off yer rockin' chairs."

The nice thing about a conventional war is that you only die a conventional death.

CHEERS FOR HERO rang in Washington today as John Glenn rode in open car in pouring rain to acknowledge plaudits of crowd. Glenn is seen waving back with his wife Annie. (AP Wirephoto.)

FEEL THE TRUE, genuine, and original "Cheap John" advertised that he is "once more in the field with a new stock of goods—cheaper than the cheapest, better than the best."

His store is located on Johnson Street, above Waddington Ave.

Among cargo arrived in Prince of the Seas was 34 tons of Swedish iron, consigned to Arthur Fellows.

The RMA brief, presented by national president David A. Lesser, put the finger on wholesalers as the engineers of stamp schemes.

"His aim is complete saturation of the entire retail trade with trading stamps and a target of 2 per cent of retail sales," said the brief.

GAINS DISAPPEAR

"Past experiences have shown that while the retailer who uses the scheme can expect certain initial advantages once the other retailers are recruited into the schemes the early gains disappear. This leaves the housewife to carry the cost of the stamp plan."

Mr. Lesser said extra prices were added in "subtle ways"—not on nationally-advertised goods with a relatively stable price.
